Aged Cow Wins Lancaster Holstein Show

QUARRYVILLE (Lancaster Co.) — An aged cow entry in the Lancaster County Holstein Show took grand champion honors Thursday, edging out some quality show cattle in the younger classes.

Dale Olver, Penn State Dairy Extension, was judge for the show, naming New Direction Ijon Desire-ET grand champion.

Thomas McCauley, who showed the 7-year-old Holstein for his father Alan, said it was the first time she was shown in a milking class, always being dry at show time.

According to McCauley, Desire represents the last of a group of embryo transfer sisters which were flushed from the same dam, Blair BR Carmel Delight. Desire is a daughter of Sterk Ra Ijon.

Although Desire's sire's name isn't as common as some of the contenders in the show (which saw a number of Hanover Hill pedigree and other daughters of well-known Holstein sires chosen for class winners), the aged cow comes

Young Farmers Learn Significance Of Valley

SUMMIT STATION (Schuylkill Co.) — It's possible you may have a bit of history in your barn.

Items on several farms located in the Mahantango Valley — a centerpiece of 19th century Pennsylvania Dutch life — could contain "elements of the past that should be preserved," said Rev. Carl Shankweiler.

Shankweiler spoke to more than 200 young farmers here at a banquet during the Pennsylvania Young Farmers annual Summer Conference last week.

Shankweiler, pastor of Trinity Lutheran Church, Valley View, said that the Mahantango Valley was a center of Pennsylvania Dutch Culture in the early 1800s. Many hand-crafted furniture and other items built during that period are eagerly sought after by museums and collectors.

And many of the items of the

Various Groups Support Vet School

EVERETT NEWSWANGER

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — Scientists, companion pet owners, animal rightists, and bankers joined farmers in a common cause Thursday. No one wants to see the University of Pennsylvania's School of Veterinary Medicine close.

State government recently enacted the 1992-93 budget that completely eliminated $15.3 million in appropriations to the school. The school had been receiving 40 percent of its operating income from the commonwealth. The termination of state funding has placed the school in serious jeopardy of having to close its doors.

The meeting sponsored by the Pennsylvania Farmers Association at the Harrisburg Community College showed great support from a wide variety of special interest groups. Dr. Marna Whittington, senior vice president of the University of Pennsylvania, said restoring of funds for the school was top priority. "We have put hundreds of millions of dollars into the interstructure of the school," she said. "And we have every intention to continue to do that. Our Veterinary School is the best in the country and a very valuable asset to the University."

Roger Caras, president of the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, was even more forceful in his comments.

"Frankly, I find it difficult to believe that I flew here from Montreal to even discuss such a plan to close your vet school," Caras said. "This seems out of joint with reality, intellectual vandalism, and a denial of the future not to mention the fiscal folly involved in the state that has its number one industry dependent on veterinary medicine to sustain its present and future."

"Why are you inviting back the dark ages?" Caras asked. "Because someone has said that the school is private? If a great, great school serving a state with billions of dollars of agriculture and animal husbandry can ever be considered private — nonsense."

York Swine Breeders Protest Pseudorabies Inaction

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Purebred swine breeders in York County are not a happy group of producers these days.

They want Pennsylvania animal health officials to pork up measures to deal with the spread of pseudorabies.

Some 80-plus producers and swine industry representitives turned out recently for a York meeting addressing the spread of pseudorabies into the county. As part of that meeting, the York Pork Producers offered a resolution calling for Pennsylvania to move into a mandatory pseudorabies cleanup program.

"We would like to see Pennsylvania move into the second stage of the federal government's cleanup program," said purebred breeder Steve Wilson, New Freedom. The program would include testing of all herds within a mile and one-half of a pseudorabies-quarantined herd.

Several of the relatively small, family farm swine breeding herds in York County are state and nationally known for their outstanding bloodlines and show herds. And, while most have regularly tested and worked toward maintaining pseudorabies-free herds, the increasing rate of dis-

Cooperative Leaders Meet

STATE COLLEGE (Centre Co.) — More than 40 cooperative members representing 13 cooperatives and two co-op councils attended the 18th annual Pennsylvania Council of Cooperatives (PCC) Young Cooperative Leaders Conference at the Days Inn-Penn State in State College.

The purpose of the conference was to further educate conference attendees about the importance of the cooperative way of doing business and emphasize the need to become involved in the leadership opportunities offered by agricultural cooperatives.

William Perry, manager of governmental affairs for Milk Marketing, Inc., a marketing cooperative based in Strongville, Ohio, reminded the participants that farmers and farm-related businesses organized the first cooperatives more than a century ago in order to do business more effectively as a group. Today, cooperative members must consider the important role that cooperatives play in the agricultural economy and support them for that fact.

"Cooperatives are people," said Perry, "and we are the ones that must remind the public that we have an important way of doing business."

Perry said countries in Eastern Europe will turn to cooperative principles in establishing their free form of business enterprise. "We must consider business on a global

NATIONAL EGG MARKET - AT A GLANCE:

Prices were unchanged. The market tone was mostly steady to instances fully steady. Demand was best where retail promotional activity was either planned or in progress. Supplies were usually sufficient although in some areas product was being held with a bit more confidence. Breaker demand was mixed as additional offerings were held for higher values.

Movement of ready-to-cook whole birds was light to fair and about normal for mid-week activity. Supplies and offerings were adequate to ample and in heaviest balance on under 3 pound sizes. Less than trucklot asking prices were unchanged at 55 to 62 cents but some lighter weight birds were slow to clear at discounted price levels. Live supplies were moderate. Weights were light to desirable and cooler weather in local production centers was expected to shortly increase overall sizes. Slaughter schedules were heavy. Trade sentiment was steady at best. All forms of breasts were strong; leg items were barely steady to weak.

Trucklot buying interest was irregular; active for white meat items, sluggish for dark meat items. Boneless skinless breasts were short of covering a good demand for immediate needs. Trading was reported at higher prices. Whole breasts were very tight and buying interest went unfilled. Most deboners reduced operating schedules because they could not get sufficient raw materials. Some product booked for this morning's deliveries was not even available for loading.

Dark meat items were fully adequate to ample, offered at lower prices, and slow to clear to a very light demand. Yellow skin wings were tight at current prices.

OPINION

Effort Is Worthwhile

As more people move to rural areas, the need increases for cooperation and understanding among neighbors. Often new arrivals are unfamiliar with agricultural practices, animals and machines as well as the traditions of a particular rural community. At the same time, established farmers and other long-time residents may be unaware of the perceptions and expectations of newcomers. Many move to the country for space (privacy), quiet, clean air and to be closer to nature. Some may be surprised, and even disappointed, when they first encounter the odors, noises and dusts associated with farming operations. They may not anticipate the destruction of vegetable gardens and ornamental plantings by insects, plant diseases and wild animals.

Because farms usually have been in-place and operating long before most rural residential development occurs, and because agricultural production is so important to our total economy, state law helps to protect the right of farmers to continue most farming practices (i.e., spreading manure, drying grain), even when new neighbors might be offended or disturbed. Of course, such legislation doesn't necessarily help to build good relationships among rural neighbors. Those good relationships depend more on thoughtful and well-motivated efforts by country residents on both sides of the fence.

The old saying "Good fences make good neighbors" certainly applies in areas where animals are grazed. It benefits both animal owners and their immediate neighbors to have well-built fences, well-maintained and respected. Good fences prevent accidents on roadways which can injure or kill people and animals and damage vehicles. Stray animals can damage both farm crops and residential plantings. Animals that wander onto other farms increase their own exposure to disease.

Since many plants commonly found in home landscapes (i.e., iris, holly, yew, oak) are poisonous to people and animals, avoid discarding trimmings and yard waste into pastures.

Remember that small metal objects thrown into pastures and hay fields can be eaten by animals, especially cattle, and cause "hardware disease" which can be fatal. Metal, wood and plastic trash can also damage farm equipment and reduce the quality and market value of grain crops.

Robert Leiby and David Dunbar with the Lehigh Co. Extension office say farmers enhance country life by using the following thoughtful practices: they avoid spreading manure just before weekends and holidays; they incorporate manure as soon as possible after spreading; they apply pesticides when there is little or no wind; they make sure manure spreaders, farm wagons and trucks do not spill contents on public roads; they avoid "tracking" mud on public roads with truck, tractor and implement tires.

Be cautious when traveling on rural roads. The red and orange triangular slow-moving vehicle (SMV) emblems plus a pair of amber flashing warning lamps are mounted on agricultural equipment which travel at speeds of less than 25 miles per hour.

Passenger vehicle drivers need to be especially alert for slow-moving vehicles in agricultural areas. Operators of farm tractors and equipment often will pull to the side, where appropriate, to allow faster vehicles to pass. Proceed cautiously when overtaking a large piece of agricultural equipment.

Operators of recreational vehicles can help their farm neighbors greatly by talking special care to avoid driving on farm fields. Causing crop damage by driving through a field is the same as stealing money from the producer of that crop. Be sure to ask permission before taking a recreational vehicle on a farm.

Much of the effort required to be a good neighbor in a rural community is related to courtesy, safety and good stewardship. We believe the effort is worthwhile.

To Read About Hot Weather Tips For Poultry

We are in the heat of summer. Here are some hot weather tips for poultry you may want to consider:

- Make sure fan louvers are clean and wide open. Partially open louvers will reduce fan air movement by 10 to 50 percent.
- Check air inlets on both sides of the house. Make sure they are clean and no trees, bird nests, etc. are not reducing air intake.
- Make sure your generator and alarm system are working. Test once a week under full load.
- Make sure attic fans are working and removing hot air from the attic.
- Check water system frequently to make sure birds are receiving water.
- Walk through your birds several times from early afternoon into early evening. In extreme hot weather, the birds sit, trap heat underneath their body, and pant a lot of carbon dioxide (deadly gas to chickens). By walking through the birds, you allow some of the body heat to escape while giving them fresh air. Remember, most mortality occurs between 5 p.m. and 7 p.m.

To Consider Merits Of Silage Preservatives

The merits of silage preservatives have been debated for many years. More has been learned and improvements have been made in recent years.

Because of these improvements, results have been more positive compared to previous years. Once a crop is ensiled, many things may happen that are beyond the control of the farmer.

His goals are to harvest and preserve the best quality feed possible, minimize the risk of abnormal fermentations, and reduce costs associated with storage losses and losses associated with feeding poor quality forages.

Proper use of silage preservatives may help minimize these risks. Lactic acid-producing bacteria generally have been the most effective, especially with alfalfa and grasses.

Enzymes are more expensive and have shown their best results when used with grass type silages. The use of preservatives should help you to obtain similar results every time instead of erratic results.

To Do Estate Planning

Estate planning involves many once-in-a-lifetime decisions, not just writing a will. It involves many complex issues, feelings, and emotions.

Now is an excellent time to bring your family together and discuss your estate plan. The last task of being a top-notch manager is having the next generation receiving the business intact.

You need to review your current plan at least every three years. If you do not have an estate plan, you need to develop one now. If you do not have a will, the state has one for you. Their asset distribution will probably not be the same as yours.

You should name the guardian for your children and one or more executor of your estate. If your estate is worth more than $600,000, you will need a will to set up a trust that could save your estate thousands of dollars in taxes.

There are many options available to you in transferring the management, business, and assets to the next generation. These include partnerships, joint ventures, corporations, rental agreements, installment sales, living trusts, etc.

There are many professionals available to help you in beginning your estate plan. These include cooperative extension agents, bankers, attorneys, accountants, and financial planners.

Do not delay. Start your estate planning now.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS
BY LAWRENCE W. ALTHOUSE

MY FAITH'S BETTER THAN YOURS!
July 26, 1992

Background Scripture:
1 Timothy 1.
Devotional Reading:
James 3: 1-5.

This letter, 1 Timothy, has sometimes been used as a proof-text to support an emphasis upon doctrinal correctness. Actually, it is just the opposite. The writer is concerned, not with how people articulate their ideas about Christ, but how they live their lives as a result of what they believe.

There have been too many times in my life when someone has attacked me because I do not formulate the expression of my beliefs in just the same way he or she does. Many years ago, when I was an adult advisor to an ecumenical Christian state youth council, another advisor squelched our plans for celebrating Holy Communion together because he was certain that we did not believe about Holy Communion what he did. Unless we believe the same thing, he said, we could not kneel together at the Lord's Table.

"O.K.," I said, "why don't you tell me what you believe and I'll see whether that's really different from what I believe." So, he explained rather concisely what his denomination taught concerning the Lord's Supper. When he was finished, I said, "Well, that's what I believe, too." "Oh no you don't," he insisted. No matter what I said, I could do nothing to shake his conviction that he could not commune with me because we believed differently.

PROMOTING SPECULATIONS

Isn't this what the writer of 1 Timothy is referring to when he criticizes those who "occupy themselves with myths and endless genealogies which promote speculations rather than the divine training that is in faith" (11:4). The heart of Christian discipleship is not speculation — no matter how much holy fun some people may find it — but conduct. Think about many of the people whom Jesus healed during his ministry. Not many of these people would have scored well in correct doctrinal beliefs — just the opposite — but all of them who were healed because they trusted in this man Jesus, not in ideas about him.

I'm not saying that theological or doctrinal beliefs are of no importance; but that they are not the most important factor in our Christian life. If they produce Christian living in us, wonderful! But unless we can translate each of those beliefs into some kind of effort in faith, it matters little. I've known people who knew all the right doctrinal words and phrases, but their discipleship seldom went beyond the confines of their brains and voices.

A GOSPEL OF GRACE

How can you tell if doctrine is correct? The writer of 1 Timothy bids us look at the results of that doctrine: "...the aim of our charge is love that issues from a pure heart and a good conscience and sincere faith" (1:5). This was the writer's own experience. Though the writer had been "the foremost of sinners," it was not doctrines that won him to the gospel of Jesus Christ, but the grace of God: "...the grace of our Lord overflowed for me with the faith and love that are in Christ Jesus" (1:14).

Similarly, when the writer speaks of sinners condemned, he does not speak of those who believed incorrectly, but who performed sinfully: "...murderers of fathers and murderers of mothers, for manslayers, immoral persons, sodomites, kidnappers, liars, perjurors and whatever else is contrary to sound doctrine" (1:9,10). Some of these may have been quite confident that they had the "right doctrine." But concentrating on our ideas about faith can get in the way of living that faith — especially when our belief systems feed our pride and the arrogant assumption that ours is the correct one.

LITTLE HILL FARMS
THE JAMES HILL FAMILY

BROWN'S

A FAMILY DAIRY BUILDING FOR THE FUTURE

Trading New Jersey Holland Dutch Dairy Neighbors For Lebanon County, Pennsylvania Dutch Neighbors

THE JAMES HILL FAMILY

Jim & Billie Hill, daughter Terry, and son Rich are all involved in the day to day operation of Little Hill Farm. They are pictured with Lodestar Ovation Banner who is excellent at 90 points, freshened in November at 6 years 8 months of age and is projected in 305 days to milk 26,759 lbs. of milk, 968 of fat and 806 of protein. She is bred back and due to freshen again in 367 days. The Hills have been Brown's customers for over twenty years in two states. They moved from New Jersey to Pennsylvania in 1987 to escape the urban sprawl and quickly adjusted to their new Pennsylvania Dutch neighbors.

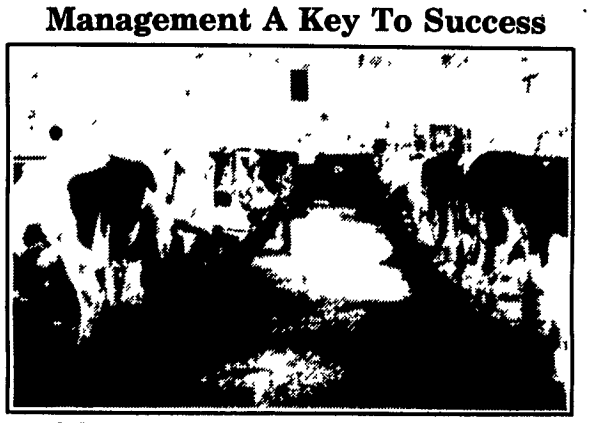
Shasta - First Homebred Excellent

This Bell daughter is an example of the type of cows the Hills are building on. Her records speak for themselves.

Age	Days Milked	Milk	Fat	Protein
2-0	365	23,488	755	719
3-5	296	23,524	811	716
4-5	365	32,208	1064	950
5-7	305 Proj.	30,458	878	860

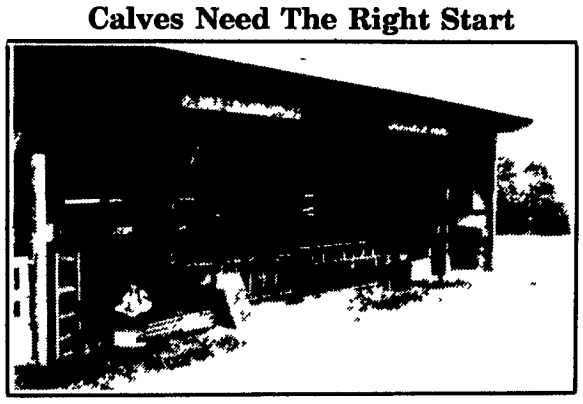
Shasta is due back in less than 12 months. Breeding is important to Jim and Rich. They feel Brown's Prolac helps get cows in shape faster for rebreeding and prolongs milk peaks.

Management A Key To Success



A clean barn and clean cows helped Little Hill Farms achieve the top award for low somatic cell count in Lebanon County with Swiss and third with Holsteins. With a rolling herd average of nearly 21,500 lbs. of milk for Holsteins and over 19,000 lbs. for the Swiss it is easy to see their management rates near the top. Haylage, corn silage, wheatlage, and mixed hay make up the forages fed at Little Hill. Brown's 38 Milkmaster, Jim's own roasted beans and ear corn make up the majority of the dairy grain mix. Jim said when they moved their herd average dropped but that Brown's Area Directors Dave McCracken and currently Dennis Kulp got the herd moving in the right direction again. Their goal is to continue to keep the herd healthy and milking well.

Calves Need The Right Start



A good environment and Brown's 20/20 Quick Start, Calf Starter, and Calf Grower get calves growing quickly.

New Heifer Barn A Real Labor Saver

With the new heifer barn just erected, Jim and Rich can keep a closer eye on the heifers and control feeding, breeding & herd health.

You are cordially invited to visit Little Hill Farms for the Lebanon County Holstein Field Day and Picnic on Thursday Night, August 13th at 7:00 PM. The farm is located on Mt. Zion Road just north of Mt. Zion and south of the Swatara Creek.

Higher quality for improved protection.

Ag ONE lubricants (engine oils, fluids, grease) and filters provide superior performance.

For instance, Ag ONE Supreme engine oil surpasses the Cummins NTC 400 oil consumption and cleanliness performance test by double the duration required. In the alkaline property (TBN) tests, Ag ONE Supreme also tested superior. It also far surpasses the minimums in wear protection and viscosity testing.

And Ag ONE Supreme is one example of the many superior lubricants and filters competitively priced from your White-New Idea dealer. See them for all your parts and supplies.

Adams Co. 4-H Horse Show Planned

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — The Adams County 4-H Horse clubs are busy getting ready for the annual 4-H Horse Show, scheduled for Saturday, August 1, at the South Mountain Fairgrounds, near Arendtsville.

The riders who will participate in the show are to be the members of the Abbottstown 4-H Horse Club, the Gettysburg 4-H Club, and the Riding High Club.

Members will compete in grooming and showmanship classes, with a champion and reserve champion being awarded in each division. Riders are also to participate in halter and performance classes, such as equitation, jumping, trail, and Western pleasure. The 4-H Horse program is designed to introduce young people to the feeding, grooming, and training of horses.

Local businesses and private individuals support the show by sponsoring the show's classes, and they receive recognition through radio stories and newspaper ads and articles.

Everyone is invited to come to the show, and admission is free. Grooming and showmanship classes begin at 9:30 a.m. with performance classes immediately following. The Adams County 4-H Horse Show is a part of the annual 4-H Fair.

Chester Co. Holstein Club Picnic Set

Those who wish to attend the annual Chester County Holstein Club picnic should have reservations made by August 4, according to club organizers.

The picnic is scheduled for 10 a.m., August 13, at the Alvin Stoltzfus farm, located near Russellville.

More than half of the Stoltzfus herd is out of the Dunwood Golden and Cola cow families and scored Very Good or Excellent. The herd BAA is 106. Production average is more than 24,000 pounds milk, and 950 pounds fat with a 3.3 percent protein content.

The speaker for the day is Dave Rama, Holstein merchandiser and pedigree reader, whose topis is to be "Breeding to Merchandise."

In addition, generous pork sandwiches are offered for lunch at $4 per adult, $2 for youth aged 5 to 12 years, and no charge for youth 4 years old and younger.

To make reservations, call Jim Miller at 938-8668, Dick Hostetter at (215) 857-2780, or Ken Umble at 593-2274.

To get to the farm, head north approximately 1½ miles from the intersection of routes 10 and 896. The farm is located on the west side of the highway.

Field Day Shows Grazing

LANCASTER (Lancaster Co.) — All are invited to a Penn State University Extension and farmer-supported field day on grazing dairy cattle as an alternative to bunk-only feeding, to be held from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., July 31, at the Lindenhof Guernsey Farm, in southern Lancaster County.

The Lindenof farm is located along Rt. 472, about 2 miles south of Kirkwood, and is the home of Dick and Axel Linde, and Millie Widmann.

In addition to a full day of speakers, also on hand will be exhibits of fencing materials, fence chargers, and cattle waterers.

The schedule is for material exhibits to start at 9:30 a.m., followed by a talk by Glenn Shirk, county extension agent on "Is Grazing For Me?"

Shortly afterward, Dr. Lawrence Muller, PSU dairy professor, is to discuss managing cows on pasture as experienced at the state college.

At 11 a.m., Thomas Calvert, with the Somerset office of the USDA Soil Conservation Service, is to discuss the number and size of pasture lots recommended for grazing.

Robert Anderson, extension agent, is to take over at 11:30 a.m. to discuss lots and weed control.

At 11:45 a.m., Calvert is to talk about fencers, fencing materials and waterers.

Lunch starts 12:15 p.m. and food is to be available for purchase.

At 1:30 p.m., several farmers experienced with grazing are to report on their findings.

Perry Acres: Orchard Picking At Its Best

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

HAMBURG (Berks Co.) — Cherry and blueberry picking has never been better than at Perry Acres this month.

"I can stand at one spot and pick a bucketful of cherries," said a pick-it-yourselfer.

Customers in the blueberry patch were equally pleased.

"You can pick blueberries by the handfuls. I don't know why people buy them in the grocery stores when they are so easy and quick to pick yourself," said one.

For those who dread the hours required to pit bucketfuls of cherries — rejoice!

Perry Acres has a cherry pitter, which pits 300 pounds of cherries in one hour. The machine with its stainless steel needles removes the pits without crushing the cherries. Customers do not pay an extra fee to have their cherries pitted.

George and Barbara Perry purchased the cherry pitter seven years ago.

"It's a temperamental machine that needs to be sychronized just right," Perry said. By trial and error he has been able to perfect the machine, and it does a superb job. Some new customers are wary that the machine will crush their cherries, but when the see it work, and how plump the cherries remain after pitting, they are delighted with the results.

"Once you use the cherry pitter, you won't ever want to pit cherries by hand again," a customer said.

Perry includes the cherry pitting in with the price per pound with the cherries.

"I figure that it is a nice service for the customers," he said.

The 5 acres of tart or sour cherries are used mostly in baking, but this year, the cherries tasted sweet enough to eat.

George and Barbara Perry, who own the orchard, said the abundance of recent rain have produced a larger size fruit and a prolific crop this year.

"We didn't even have a frost this year to reduce the blossoms," Perry said.

The Perrys also grow nectarines and six acres of pumpkins. They had six acres of peach trees, but a severe storm in August did tornado-like damage to the trees.

As an orchard grower, Perry has an advantage because he is the Schuykill County Extension horticultural agent.

"I probably hear about the newest findings quicker than most people," Perry said. By working with the University, he has had a chance to experiment. Other orchard growers often visit to see what he is doing, which gives Perry a chance to be a better help to those who seek the advice of Extension agents.

Another advantage, Perry has is that he grew up working on his parents' orchard in Blair County.

Before the Perrys purchased the 43-acre farm about 19 years ago, the land was used to grow vegetables. The Perrys planted peaches, cherries, nectarines, pumpkins, and blueberries on the land.

In addition, they raise purebred Shropshires, which the Perrys' daughters, Gwen and Meagan, have won numerous awards in 4-H competition at fairs and the Pennsylvania Farm Show.

"Cherry trees usually are proflific for 20 to 25 years. Blueberry bushes will last 50 years if pruned and taken care of properly," he said.

For blueberries, acid soil is a must. When grown out of their natural habitate, the soil must be amended to a 5.0 or less pH. The bushes are mulched with wide strips of mowed grass between the rows for easy picking.

According to Perry, the proper way to pick blueberries is using two fingers and the thumb and letting the berries roll into the bucket.

The berries are ripe when completely blue around the stem. If it is red or pinkish at the stem, the berry is not ripe.

Like must agricultural related businesses, the Perrys' success is dependent on the weather. Hot, humid weather keeps customers away in the heat of the day. So does rain.

And, of course, the growing season is entirely dependent upon the weather. High temperatures cause scalding on the fruit. High winds cause limp and bruised berries.

Last years' drought resulted in very little fruit. Although supply is abundant this year, most of the pick-it-yourselfers are people of retirement age.

"It seems as if younger people don't have time to pick," Mrs. Perry said. Then, too, many of the younger generation are not adept at baking for which the tart cherries are used. Smaller size families results in selling less volume.

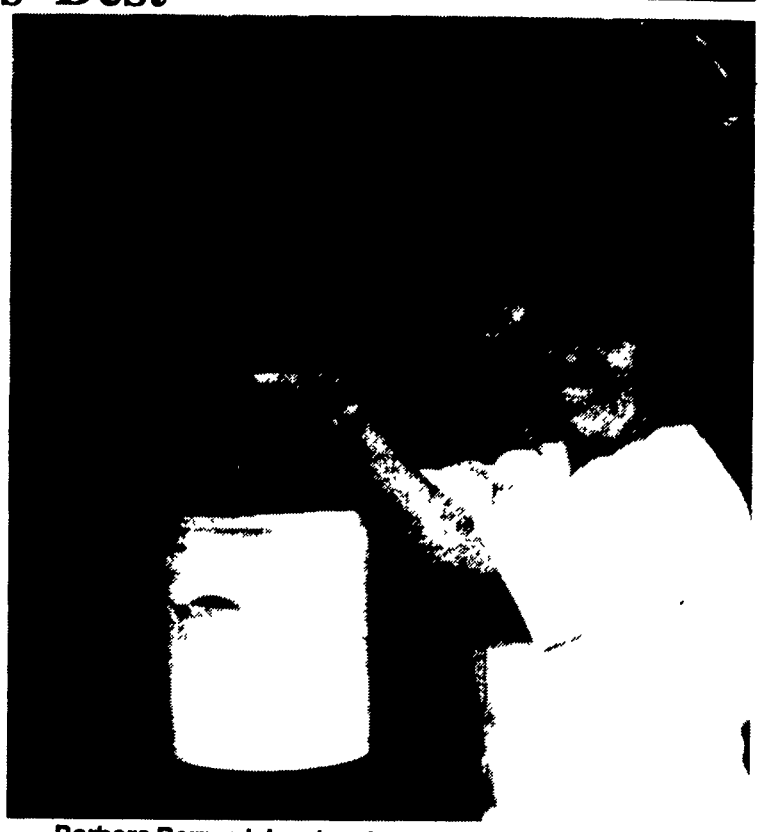
The Perrys advertize in local newspapers and send out brochures to those on their mailing list. Much of their business is repeat business and word-of-mouth advertising from satisfied customers.

"A lot of people think we are only busy in the orchard during the summer months, but that isn't true," Perry said. Pruning, fertilizing, and caring for the trees and bushes are a year-round business.

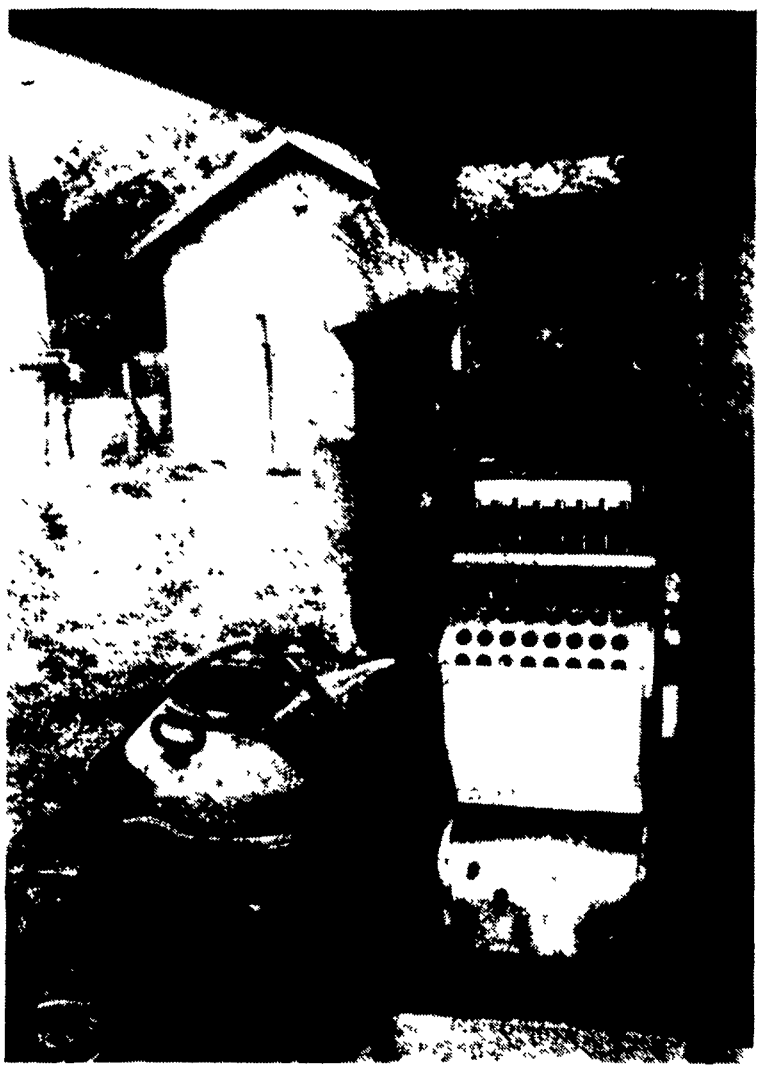
Birds can strip a tree of cherries within minutes. Some years, the Perrys have had severe trouble with birds. While some orchards resort to cannons booming every few minutes, the Perrys found that ineffective in scaring away the birds, which grow accustomed to the noise. Chemicals sprayed on the trees to deter birds from eating the cherries have been removed from the market.

This year, the Perrys did not have trouble with birds but they haven't been able to pinpoint why.

(Turn to Page A30)



Barbara Perry picks cherries at Perry Acres, the orchard operated by her husband and her. The trees are filled with cherries — the heaviest crop in at least five years.



The cherry pitter is a great timesaver for those who pick their own fruit. George Perry washes off the cherries on the table. The cherries are then fed into a drum that turns as cherries fill individual cells. Stainless steel needles punch off the pits that are washed into a side bucket while the cherries roll into a clean container. The cherries remain plump and do not mash during the process.

Management Information For Barn Use

Video Help Available

We now have available upon request a videotape to learn at home, or in the Extension Office for those of you that might not have a VCR, more about your Monthly Report (Red, White and Blue Sheet). This video can help you interpret areas of the Monthly Report that may have been unclear to you. This video is approximately 25 minutes long and can be viewed as time permits. We suggest that you request this video and return as soon as you can. We can honor your request via the technician (supervisor) that visits your herd each month or you can call 1-800-344-8378 and ask for Dixie or Michele.

As you may already know the DHIA Monthly Report has a lot of information that can help you in making decisions on individual cows on your farm. DHIA production records are only valuable to you the producer if they are used to help identify problems and find solutions to making your farm more profitable.

This video was made possible by Jim Clark the McKean County Extension Agent and assisted by our DHIA staff.

Fee Committee Forms

The PA DHIA Field Service Pricing Advisory committee will provide a member-directed process for communicating field service pricing recommendations to the PA DHIA Board of Directors through the Finance and Personnel Committee.

The committee's scope will be limited to the rates charged for labor, equipment, supplies and related costs associated with services provided on test day in counties that have merged with PA DHIA.

* The committee shall review the current schedules of field services fees from the merged associations

* Determine the most equitable manner to assign various types of costs for service to members

* Recommend to the PA DHIA board, through the Finance and Personnel Committee, the method to use (i.e.) (the model) for charging members for the various costs associated with providing field services on test day

* Recommend the ideal number of different rate structures needed to reflect differences in labor, transportation, and other costs around the state

* Develop and recommend a method for completing the transition to the ideal number of rate structures and time schedule for completing

* Complete all recommendations to the PA DHIA board by April 1993

* Help implement and communicate the equitable pricing structure within each representative's local county committee

DHIA At State Holstein Picnic

Pennsylvania DHIA will participate in the Pennsylvania Holstein Picnic to be held in conjunction with an open house at Evergreen Farms in Huntingdon County on Aug 15. Evergreen is owned by Wayne Harpster.

DHIA will set up an ARIS Demonstration along with a presentation on a lap top computer and the Labor Efficient Program (LER). In addition, in the exhibit area, DHIA will have literature available on DHIR, heifer management, Dairy Comp 305, stable cards, SCC, optional reports and the new Herd Summary II. DHIA staff will assist dairy farmers to explain or answer questions. "Look for DHIA in three different locations," says Dixie L. Burris. "Stop by and see us."

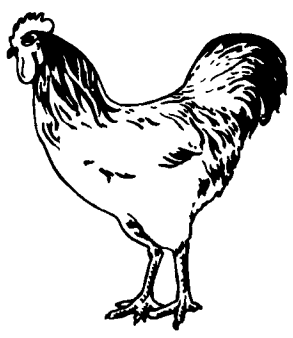
era, including farm equipment and housing, has been burned down or thrown away, or left as refuse, when in actuality they have much value.

The Winter Tour at the Philadelphia Museum of Art has an exhibit on the early Pennsylvania Dutch designs from the area, including many tombstone designs that feature the elements of the period — hearts, rosettes, flowers, pinwheels, and cartouches. According to Shankweiler, many were carved by Isaac Stiehly (who died in 1869), a well-known craftsman of the time.

The Mahantango Valley, located in Schuylkill and Northumberland counties, stretches about 25 miles long and is roughly four miles wide, running east to west, according to Shankweiler. Towns in the area include Pitman, Klingerstown, Rough and Ready, Pillow, Malta, Leck Kill, Rebuck, and others.



Shankweiler spoke about the foods and language of the period, and talked about pictures called "fraktur."

Shankweiler said that farmers should recognize their historical contributions to the mostly agrarian area. The culture, once significant to the area, over the years may have gotten lost.

In a slide presentation, he showed six sites where buildings had been demolished, which had significant historical contributions to the life of the Pennsylvania Dutch at the time. The sites included an inn, a mill, several houses, and a barn.

One of the buildings was scheduled to be burned down, but was rescued at the last moment, moved to another site, and restored.

Shankweiler spoke about the contributions of several sources, including "Songs Along the Mahantango," gathered and edited by Walter E. Boyer, Albert F. Buffington, and Don Yoder, which was compiled in the 1940s.

Many in the audience knew the area and some lived close to where many of the farms were located, according to Shankweiler.

Other programs conducted during the two-day conference included various educational sessions and nature tours along the woodland ecology trail.

Sophia Gem Takes Maryland District Show

MARYLAND CORRESPONDENT

WEST FRIENDSHIP, MD. — The Central District Championship Holstein Field Day was held at the Howard County Fair Grounds. This is a combine show for Baltimore, Carroll, Harford and Howard Counties. This year there were 100 entries with 64 of them being exhibited by 4-hers.

David Hill, of Hills Hope Holsteins, Shippensburg, Pa. and originally from Federick County, Maryland, was the judge for the show. He was assisted in the fitting and showing contest by Steve Wilson.

Cove-Run Vtab Sophia Gem, owned by Paul Harrison III and Mike Iager was named Grand Champion of the show. Judge Hill praised her dairyness, sharpness, quality and attachment of udder. "Just a fine looking cow," Hill commented. This promising senior three year old was also first in her class at the Maryland Holstein Spring Show earlier this year. Harrison and Iager have Gem entered in the 1992 Maryland Futurity to be held at the Maryland State Fair this fall.

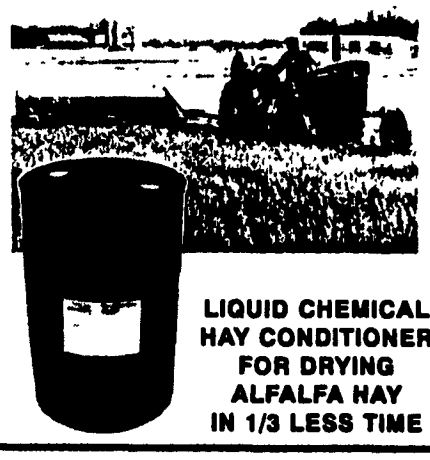
SWATHER'S CHOICE

ALFALFA HAY CONDITIONER

NEW!



LIQUID CHEMICAL HAY CONDITIONER FOR DRYING ALFALFA HAY IN 1/3 LESS TIME

Alfalfa and other legume crops have a coating of wax. While this coating is a natural protection for the growing plant, it is an inhibitor to moisture loss in field curing and to feed utilization in the digestive system of ruminant animals. The presence of this coating of wax also makes the hay stem brittle and less palatable to livestock.

Swather's Choice "washes off" the outside waxy coating of alfalfa, allowing for the water inside the plant to evaporate more rapidly than in untreated hay. Swather's Choice is actually a soap that is safe for livestock consumption and won't affect palatability.

In studies at Michigan State University, hay treated with the ingredients in Swather's Choice had higher protein and lower fiber. In a further study at Utah State University, cows consumed 2.2 pounds more treated hay per day.

Unlike conventional granular drying agents, Swather's Choice is a liquid chemical hay conditioner. It is easily tank mixed with water and requires only fifteen gallons per acre in most applications, compared with the conventional products that are normally applied at 30 gallons per acre.

York Swine Breeders

ease spread is raising considerable concern. Since spring, three swine herds in York County have been found pseudorabies positive.

The current outbreak of psuedorabies in Pennsylvania began in 1980, according to Dr. Max Van Buskirk, director of the state's Bureau of Animal Industry.

"Essentially, it had been confined to Lancaster County," said the BAI head. "But recently it began spreading to other counties. There are now 12 counties with at least one infected herd and 116 herds now quarantined."

Pseudorabies, also known as Aujeszky's Disease or Mad Itch, is caused by a herpes virus. Death losses, abortions, and reproductive failures caused by pseudorabies can cause serious economic problems to swine breeders and producers. The disease is usually fatal to other livestock, as well as cats and dogs, which are also susceptible to the virus. However, pseudorabies does not pose a human health threat.

Current control measures by the state focus on quarantine and controlling movements of hogs from infected herds, Dr. Van Buskirk said.

"But breeding herds are not usually finishing out the progeny," he said. "And a breeding herd may have finishing floors elsewhere." One example he cited produces 1,000 feeders weekly, with finishing floors in five different counties.

"Swine owners not in those conditions are not happy about that," Dr. Van Buskirk said. "Controls mostly stop short of putting operations out of business."

York's purebred breeders, however, counter that the current lack of testing measures could put the small swine operator out of business.

"If I was a large operator, I would consider it a tool toward eliminating the small producer," said Arlie Cornbower, New Freedom, president of the York County Pork Producers. Like most purebred stock producers, he tests regularly, is validated pseudorabies-negative, and only brings blood-tested replacements into his herd.

"When a producer has pseudorabies, that's out of his pocketbook," said Cornbower. "But we must keep them from moving infected hogs into clean areas. Even if we have animals on different premises, we test at each one."

While swine can be vaccinated against pseudorabies, breeding stock producers are reluctant to use the vaccines regularly.

"If swine are vaccinated, they generally can't go to the shows and sales because the titer will show up as a positive reading," said New Freedom veterinarian Dr. John Hurtgen. "They must have health certification for them to cross state lines. Vaccinatd pigs would show positive."

Dr. Hurtgen said that, in areas of the country where pseudorabies has been a major industry problem, seed stock herds do test and have alternatives to meet health requirements.

"It takes a lot more effort, is more expensive, and can't be done on a large scale, but if there's a pretty good threat, breeders might consider it an option to continue the genetic lines," said the veterinarian. Piglets farrowed by vaccinated sows will initially test positive, he said, but once they lose that maternal antibody in a few months, they will test negative. Such animals are, of course, susceptible again to the pseudorabies virus.

While Dr. Hurtgen is familiar with only one of the three herds quarantined in York County, he projects that, with the use of vaccines and after an 18 to 36 month period of monitoring, the quarantine could be lifted.

"Breeders are concerned about how it got here. If they could identify how, it would help them know how to better protect their herds. They don't really know how much they are at risk," he said about breeders' concerns.

Steve Wilson, who represents York County on the state Pork Producers Council, recently traveled to Washington, D.C., to lobby for federal assistance. In late June, Wilson, state pork council president Abe Fisher of Lancaster County and council member John Henkle, Lebanon County, met with staff members of senators Arlen Specter and Harris Wofford. The meetings were part of a national swine industry effort to get $15 million in federal funds for disease eradication.

"We stressed that the swine industry is not subsidized by any other program," said Wilson. "The House has already approved $7.5 million and the Senate was to look at it after the July 4 recess."

Wilson, a recent Pork All-American winner making his first-ever lobbying trip, was pleased to learn that Pennsylvania's senatorial staffs were knowledgable and concerned about the pseudorabies issue.

"I'd like to see this move a lot faster," Wilson said about efforts to get Pennsylvania moved into a mandatory testing program. "You have to get 16 yes's before you can do anything.

"Six to eight years ago there was a mandatory depopulation of pseudorabies herds. Pennsylvania was down to seven affected herds in 1983. The official state program wasn't approved until 1989. Out of the funding, they took $225,000 for testing kits," he said.

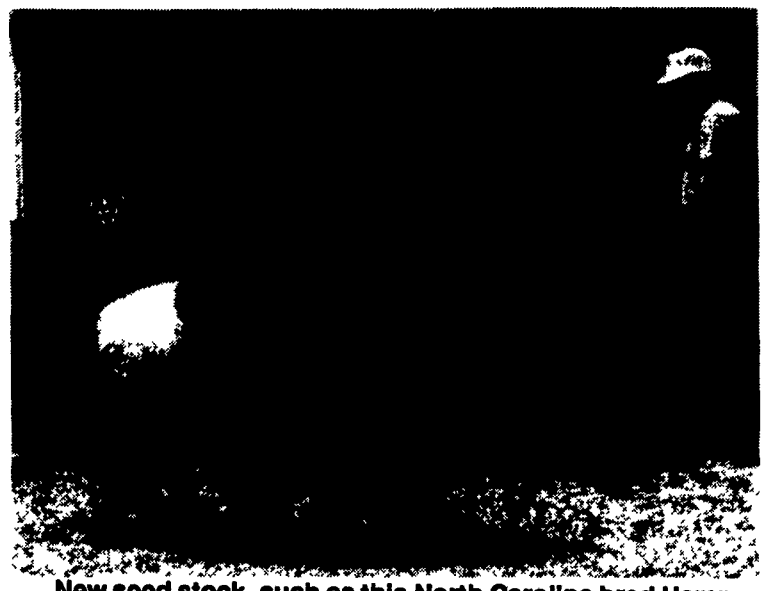
The remaining $70,000 was earmarked toward helping affected producers fund the development of cleanup plans and pay part of the blood testing. Wilson estimates the cost of vaccinating a feeder pig at 70-80 cents, and a breeding sow upward of $2. Those assistance funds, he figures, are merely a meager, proverbial "drop in the bucket" toward statewide pseudorabies eradication.

"There is pressure from surrounding states for Pennsylvania to clean up the pseudorabies problem," Wilson said. "New York has a few cases and so does Maryland, but they're much farther ahead on cleanup programs. Buyers are bypassing us and going to other states like Tennessee.

"This is not affecting the large finishing operation," he said. "The small family farm is the one that's threatened. Many have already been forced out of the business by the economy and dropping prices, and now those remaining face these health issues."

"How much more aggressive the Department (of Agriculture) should be is the question being reviewed through meetings with the industry," said BAI director Dr. Van Buskirk. He said the Department assists by providing diagnostic services.

"Pseudorabies impacts on a producer's profit or loss, but not so much on the cost or availability of pork to consumers," he said about the department's position on the pseudorabies issue. "Most Bureau of Animal Industry efforts are driven by public health or major economic concerns."



New seed stock, such as this North Carolina bred Hampshire boar, must test pseudorabies negative before entering the breeding herd of Steve Wilson of southern York County. Wilson is a strong advocate of a stepped up pseudorabies testing program for Pennsylvania.

Westmoreland Fair Hosts First Ag Tech Day

GREENSBURG (Westmoreland Co.) — The first Southwest Pennsylvania Agricultural Technology Day is scheduled for August 27 at the Westmoreland County fairgrounds, and is to provide an opportunity for farmers and commercial farm suppliers to exhibit and demonstrate products and practices.

The Westmoreland County fairgrounds are located near Norvelt. The Ag Tech Day activities are to be located at the fair Farmstead location, about 300 yards from the regular fairgrounds. Other than the regular fair admission, there is no additional admission charge to attend the Ag Tech Field Day.

In a letter from Donald Fretts, executive director of the Westmoreland Agricultural Fair and Recreation Association, of the 170 acres owned by the association, about 70 are still in crop production and pasture.

"The board of directors of the Westmoreland Fair would like to utilize the land to provide educational opportunities for the both the farmer consumer and agribusiness manufacturers and suppliers.

"We have begun development of a multi-year educational plan, including tillage management, seed variety demonstrations, herbicide plots, nitrogen management, insect identification and control, alternative hay crops, forage evaluation, grain yield evaluations, pasture management, and fencing alternatives, etc. Other ideas will be definitely considered for inclusion now and in the future."

This year, August 27, a Thursday, is to be the Farm Family Day at the county fair. It includes the Ag Technology Field Day and viewing of crop demonstrations, pesticide update training, agribusiness displays and demonstrations, farm machinery demonstrations, etc.

"This demonstration and educational effort is to be for all southwestern Pennsylvania farmers and agribusinesses. Outdoor exhibit area will be available and indoor table top displays are invited to be erected on the . . . floor of our 50-foot by 100-foot barn," Fretts wrote.

Those who wish to participate can call (412) 423-5005.

Orchard Picking At Its Best

What they do have trouble with is deer damage. The orchard is bordered by both the Blue Mountain and Hawk Mountain in which the deer seek refuge.

"The deer situation causes a lot of trouble not only for farmers but for cemetery and park rangers. It's a touchy issue trying to determine the best way to deal with deer damage," Perry said.

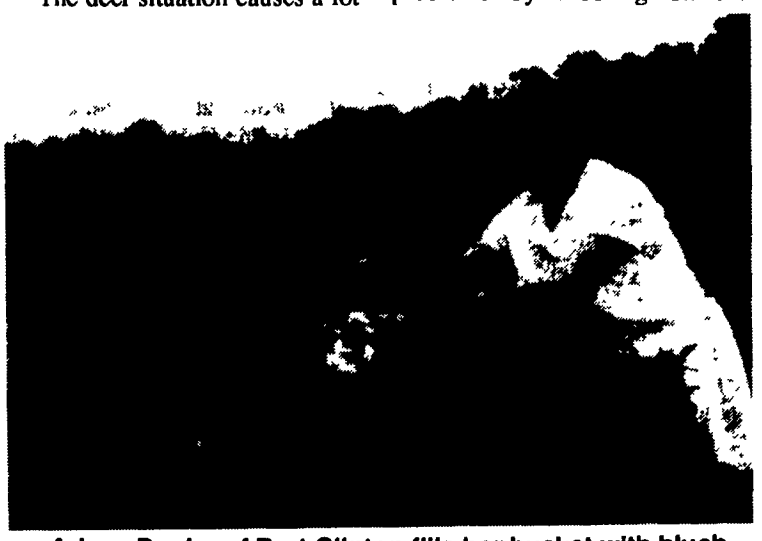
Ground hogs also cause severe problems by nibbling on the pumpkins.

While this year's harvest is abundant, the Perrys won't reap heavy profits.

"It doesn't pay to sell the fruit to a processor," Mrs. Perry said. "One year, we tried it, but after expenses were paid, we ended up with less than a cent a quart and that did not include our labor."

Although the Perrys hate to see the fruit go to waste, they said, "If it doesn't get picked, it will rot because there's nothing we can do about it. Harvesting it would cost us money — not pay us."

Perry Acres is located near Moslem Springs. Follow Rt. 222 and turn on Rt. 662 at Moslem Springs Inn. Approximately 3 miles, turn right at sign for Perry Acres and follow signs. Telephone number is (215) 944-9910.



Arlene Degler of Port Clinton fills her bucket with blueberries at Perry Acres, where George and Barbara Perry have planted 5 acres of blueberries for easy picking.

Vet School

Association, cited the work done with embryo transplants and other contributions the Vet School has done for the dairy industry.

John Hoffman, executive secretary of the Pennsylvania Poultry Association, talked of the need for diagnostic work and disease research needed.

William Hughes, vice president of the Meridian Bank, said that loans to farmers would be harder to get if underwriters did not have the assurance the medical needs for the farmers' livestock would be met.

Dotsle Keith, legislative chairman of the Pennsylvania Federation of Dog Clubs, suggested that the six percent sales tax on dog feed sold in the Commonwealth could be used for the School.

Brenda Shambaugh, legislative director of the Pennsylvania State Grange, and Robert Junk, president of the Pennsylvania Farmer's Union, and Mark McDermott, executive director of the Pennsylvania Horse Breeders Association, all put the support of their farm organizations behind the effort to restore funds to the School.

Keith Eckel, president of the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association, said in opening remarks that the meeting was called to assure the University administration and most importantly the Vet School faculty that there is a future for the Vet School and that the agricultural industry places a high value on the institution and its faculty.

"We need to be able to say without any equivocations that the action we take today insure the integrity and goals of the School of Veterinary Medicine through a sound economic approach," Eckel said.

from a strong cow family, McCauley said.

He said her grandam, Dunwood Chief Carmel, was the first registered Holstein cow to record more than five lactation records with more than 1,100 pounds of fat.

Desire, last classified as 91EE, displayed some of that production, McCauley said. She is currently predicted at 31,000 pounds of milk and more than 1,000 pounds of fat on a 305-day lactation. Her highest production to date was her second lactation when she recorded about 28,000 pounds of milk.

For the McCauleys, the grand champion trophy is to be added to their collection of several other county championships they garnered over the years. They keep their cattle at Em Tran, an embryo transfer business located in Elizabethtown.

In addition to showing the reserve grand champion Holstein, Harvey Stoltzfus's entries were judged high in several classes.

Stoltzfus, of Morgantown, uses the Pennwood prefix. His reserve champion was a junior 3-year-old, Pennwood Impact Carman, a daughter of Hanoverhill Impact-ET.

The reserve junior Hosltein was also a Pennwood product, owned and bred by Donald and Joanne Stoltzfus, Pennwood Starbuck Fran, a daugther of Hanoverhill Starbuck and dam Vista-Grande BT Snow Flora.

The junior champion was also a Hanoverhill Starbuck daughter, Ritter-Ridge S-Buck Pretty, owned by Thomas Barley and bred by Paul Ritter.

Although their cattle didn't take the top crown, entries from Howcrest Farms also placed very well in the classes and earned the John and Susan Howard family the titles of premier breeder and exhibitor of the show.

In the youth division, Sukavin Valiant M Jen, owned by Bethany Kauffman, was named grand champion. The 5-year-old Holstein is a Mevlin daughter and had placed first in the age class in the open division.

The reserve grand champion of the youth division was Strawberry-Acres Majesty Kris, a 4-year-old owned by Matthew Welk which place third in the open competition and had second best udder.

Melanie Balmer's junior calf, Leh-Mer-Pine Majestic Cami was junior champion of the youth show followed by Sherri Coleman's bred and owned intermediate calf, Cherry-Crest Leadman Snow.

The best bred and owned animal entered in the youth division of the county show was a junior 2-year-old Pa.-Cornerstone Midnite Faith, owned by Fran Kennel.

The county futurity winner was Welk-Shade GE Sensation, one of only two entered in the 3-year competition, both of which are owned by Welk-Shade farm. The sire of the winner was Glenafton Enhancer and the dam was Fultonway Sexation Sabrina.

Don Eby, in charge of the competition made a plea to members to support the decade-old competition. He said that when the futurity started there were more than 100 animals entered. This futurity started with a dozen animals entered and two to finish out.

He said that those interested in keeping the competition alive in 1995 should enter animals born between Sept. 1, 1991 and August 31, 1992.

Dairy Princesses Learn Do's And Don'ts

ANN R. SWANSON
PDPPS Committee member

WILLIAMSPORT (Lycoming Co.) — Do the names Jan Harding, Beverly Minor, Mim Kaufmann, and Rita Kennedy sound familiar? They do if you are one of Pennsylvania's Dairy Princesses. These ladies coordinated the annual Pennsylvania Dairy Princess Training Seminar.

Mim Kaufmann, PDPPS chairperson, welcomed princesses and dairy promotion committee members to Lycoming College. Robin Wilbur, the current Pennsylvania State Dairy Princess, was introduced along with her alternates, Onalee Smith and Tanya Martin.

The keynote address titled "Dairy Princess - An Honor and a Responsibility" was presented by Lynetter Loper Pietkiewicz of Waterford, 1984-85 Pennsylvania Dairy Princess.

Princesses, alternates, and committee members put in three long grueling days of promotional lessons and activities to prepare them for their duties as representatives of the dairy industry.

Tuesday's sessions featured representatives from dairy promotion agencies as well as dairy nutrition experts. The first session, "$.15 per C.W.T. - How We Use It" was presented by Cindy Weimer of Mid-east UDIA; Randy Scroger of ADA/DC; George Common of Darcy, Masius, Benton, and Bowles; Nadine Houck of PDPP; and Julie Nardi D'Amato of MAMMA. This is information that the girls can use at meetings with the farm community which they represent.

The next session dealt with the nutritional aspect of dairy products. This portion is useful when the girls address civic groups and do educational promotions. This session called for participation. Volunteers tried the games and activities. All seminar participants were handed play money with which they could purchase their snacks at the snack auction. The idea of this activity is to stress the idea of lowering their fat budget. It demonstrated how trade-offs could be made during a day to be able to enjoy the foods the girls preferred.

Area coordinators from PDPPS met with the princesses from their area. Area ice cream promotions were the topic. July is ice cream month.

The evening featured a demonstration of color analysis by Melinda Johson of Color Plus and a demonstration by Jeff Lloyd, Lloyd's Beauty Shop, of easy hairstyles. The girls then attended a hands on make-up workshop.

Arlene Wilbur, mother of the PA Dairy Princess, told mothers of other dairy princess and committee members about the promotional duties of the state princess. She accented the positive growth and development that she has seen in her daughter during the past year.

Everett Newswanger, Lancaster Farming, editor, made a presentation on photography. He showed how to create memorable photographs that newspapers will be eager to print. He discussed use of lighting and shadows. He introduced different methods of perspective to create the photograph that is just right.

Sue Werner, Lebanon County Dairy Promotion chairperson, described her county's successful dairy promotion campaign. A partnership has been developed with area agribusinesses. These agribusinesses help in the active stage of promotion. For many in the listening audience this was an innovative approach. The problem is always that there are so few people to conduct the promotional activities.

Rita Kennedy, northwestern coordinator for PDPPS, provided a history of the Dairy Princess program.

The evening concluded with an ice cream and yogurt sundae bar. The promotion people practiced what they preach as they eagerly dipped into the buckets of ice cream and yogurt to create their own special sundae.

Seminar Day on Wednesday took place in the Academic Center. In groups of about 15 the girls rotated through the educational seminars.

Hairstyling and make-up go hand in hand. Jeff Lloyd worked with the girls individually to analyze facial shape and suggest flattering hairstyles. He checked the hair condition recommending appropriate cleansing procedures. A few brave ladies consented to trimming and styling of their hair.

Melinda Johnson did a color analysis for each girl recommending flattening colors to be worn and providing insight for a color coordinated wardrobe which accentuates versatility.

The media workshop provided the girls with the tools to construct press releases as well as informational articles. Make the personal contact the girls were told. Your event will get better coverage by the media if you create a favorable impression. Ann Swanson of Hickory Heights Writing coached the girls on writing techniques and opportunities for publication. The second facet of this workshop stressed public speaking. John Rodgers, Ayrshire breeder and Dale Carnegie instructor, put the girls through their paces to create memorable first impressions. They practiced interviewing each other and making presentations about the girls that they had just met. Enthusiasm is the key element. No limp handshakes were permitted at this session.

Mim Kaufmann addressed the public speaking portion. Girls were alerted to keep up with current nutrition and health trends. A wealth of information is printed that provides for interesting presentations.

The fourth sessions was devoted to constructive criticism of presentations and speeches that the girls had developed. Each girl presented her material before a general audience of her peers and committee members. An individual conference was held afterward to suggest areas for improvement. Some girls needed to lengthen material, while other girls needed to condense their material. Still others were advised to change their costume, to move more, or to stand still and not fidget.

A formal evening meal preceeded a fashion show, "Dressing Like a Princess," coordinated by Melinda Johnson. Robin Wilbur, Onalee Smith, and Tanya Martin modeled clothes from J.C. Penney. The emphasis was on correctness of style, appropriateness of color, and ease of planning a coordinated wardrobe. The PDPP coordinators entertained with humorous renditions of "How NOT to be a Successful Dairy Princess."

The Thursday session highlighted industry concerns. Representatives from Penn State discussed current dairy statistics and trends. Girls were reminded not to be afraid to say that they do not know an answer to a question, and to volunteer to find out and get back to the questioner.

Betty Rode of Harrisburg was on hand to present the seminar "Poise and Social Do's and Don'ts." Dairy Princess seminar closed with discussion of the upcoming state pageant.

On being a farm wife - And other hazards

Joyce Bupp

Why is it?

Why is it that the cash register checkout line I wheel my shopping cart into is always the slowest?

You know the kind of line.

There are two people in front of you, each with just a few items. One will have a dozen items with a coupon on each one, then want to pay the remaining balance with a check. The check will be from a bank in Nevada; and for identification, they'll yank out a driver's license in Greek lettering and a credit card from Outer Mongolia.

And the second will argue with the checkout clerk for ten minutes over a nickel difference on a price of a sale item. (The day this happened to me I came this close to tossing the lady a dime to make up the difference, before my ice cream completely melted and dripped all over the floor).

As always when caught in checkout line limbo, I tried to ease my impatience by reading the incredible headlines of the tabloid papers on display by the counter.

You know the ones. They have three-inch-high headline letters proclaiming things like "Alligator gives birth to alien twins" or "Centenarian sheds skin and rejuvenates as teenager."

But this time, there was a headline about a farmer. Naturally, that grabbed my attention.

The giant letters proclaimed: "FARMER SHOOTS SIX-FOOT BUTTERFLY." A subheading elaborated: "18-pound insect lands in Alabama meadow." And there in black-and-white was a gentlemen with outstretched arms extending the wingspread of what looked like a humongous, gigantic monarch butterfly.

Right. Uh-huh. Sure. The image of some fellow farmer shooting a steroid-supersized bug struck me as absolutely hilarious; my checkout neighbors surely wondered what I was standing there giggling about.

Boy, what a trophy that would make for a 4-H entomology project. Worse yet, think of the size caterpillar it must have started out as. And - what it would do to any hapless flower it landed on?

My skeptic nature refused to part with a buck to read the rest of the one butterfly tale. The headline was laughable enough.

Based on actual, real, honest-to-goodness, back-home farm facts, I mentally composed a few of my own "stretched" headlines to pass the time while the ice cream melted away.

"KILLER GEESE DEVOUR FORTY-POUND DOG."

Well, maybe not exactly devoured. But the six Canadian wild geese babies are now full-grown, flying, and so aggressive they've begun chasing the dog when he gets too near their pond territory. I fully expect the boldest of the six to give Solomon a good nip in the leg one of these days. The dog is not impressed, I might add.

"FARMER ENDANGERED BY EXPLODING BALES."

With the blessing of an abundance of barley straw, The Farmer took to one recently-combined grain field to roll some of the residue into big bales. Big hay bales have been such a boon toward saving us the handling and stacking time involved in small bales that we hoped to similarly hasten and simplify some of the straw harvest.

To his amazement, when he dumped the first wrapped bale out of the chamber, the contents blew apart. When the second bale exploded, he opted for an extra outer wrapping of the springy stuff, to make the process successful. Endangered, however, was his unusal good humor, since he had to work apart and rebale the several hundred pounds of straw "exploded" in the first two tires.

And finally: "MUTANT NINJA TURTLE CAUGHT HITCHHIKING"

Though we have no sewers close to our hayfields, one abberant turtle recently turned up riding along on the baler. How it got there remains a mystery - but then any youngster can relate how Mutant Ninja Turtles can do the impossible.

We figure it was out stalking that 18-pound butterfly. For lunch.

Call For Help The Right Way

A recent edition of television show Rescue 911 showed the panic and confusion of would-be rescuers. Some people cry or sob incoherently, while others hang up before providing critical information to emergency dispatchers. The April issue of Safety & Health magazine suggests being emotionally prepared to provide the following information:

• Description of the type of emergency. • Number of victims involved. • Location of the emergency, including full address and/or nearby landmarks that are recognizable. • Treatment that has already been provided.

Stay on the phone until the dispatcher disconnects. If the emergency site is isolated or may be unfamiliar to emergency rescue personnel, have somcone meet the responders and direct them to the scene. When seconds count, your ability to call for help the right way is crucial.

Capitol Region Names Fashion Revue Winners

JOYCE BUPP
York Co. Correspondent

YORK (York Co.) — Eight senior and five junior designers emerged as gold-ribbon winners from a rainbow-hued style show at the Capital Region 4-H Fashion Revue.

The regional 4-H judging and fashion show event was hosted by York County on July 14 at Advent Lutheran Church. Participants from the seven southcentral counties modeled their hand-sewn fashion designs, after being named winners earlier at their county level of judging.

Senior gold-ribbon winners were Kimberly Rohrer, Becky Badger, Marlene Enck and Laura Shaeffer, all of Lancaster County, Lee Brandt and Terri Seibert, Lebanon County; Kelly Rockafellow and Kristin Johnston, Adams County. They will represent the Capital Region at State 4-H Fashion Revue on August 5, during the annual 4-H State Achievement Days at University Park.

Junior gold-ribbon winners included Gabrielle Wells and Andy Miller, Adams County, Charity Irvine, and Elizabeth Klaassen, Lancaster County, and Tanya Thoman, York County.

Blue ribbon winning seniors were Angie Whitcraft, Jana Lamberson and Dona Horn, York County; Jesse Romberger and Joshua Hercher, Dauphin County; Leah Bomberger, Lebanon County; Denise Green, Adams County; and Sharon Lefever, Lancaster County.

Juniors taking blue ribbons were Jennifer Yoder, York County; Benjamin Mickey, Franklin County; Amy Musselwhite, Lebanon County; Melissa Landis, Lancaster County; and Janel Keller, Adams County.

Senior winner Kelly Rockafellow, 13 of Taneytown, Maryland, chose a three-piece coordinating outfit for her sixth sewing project. The loose-fitting, lined jacket was a brushed cotton in multi-jewel toned shades, featuring a stand-up collar, raglan sleeves, front zipper and elastic lower edge. She wore it over an elastic waist straight skirt with back zipper and slit and a loose-fitting pullover top, accented with a custom-made necklace. Kelly is an eighth-grade student at Littlestown Maple Avenue Middle School.

Kristin Johnston, 14, of Gettysburg, opted for a Victorian-look dress, combining roses, lace, linen and tucks with corduroy. When Kristin, a six-year 4-H sewer, was unable to find appropriate matching buttons, she hand-painted her own. Kristin will attend Gettysburg Junior High School as a ninth-grader.

Marlene Enck, 18, of Quarryville created a gown of blue satin and lace, with fitted, princess-seamed bodice and short, full gathered skirt. She added special touches like a shaped bow at the back waistline, a peplum and self-fabric rosettes. A 10-year 4-H seamstress, Marlene is a graduate of Solanco High School and will attend Mansfield University this fall.

Kim Rohrer, 18, of Manheim designed her soft, flowing dress after ready-mades that caught her eye, adapting a pattern with creative touches. She added gathered shoulder insets and a fabric-covered belt to the basic design, then covered buttons for the back of the bodice. Kim, in her tenth year as a 4-H sewer, recently graduated from Hempfield High School and will attend the Bradley Academy this fall.

Becky Badger, 17, of Quarryville, styled a strapless, floor-length gown of teal sequins and acetate for her tenth 4-H sewing project. Designed from two patterns, the gown had a lined, sweetheart form-fitted bodice edged in piping, with four ruffles and a large sequined bow accenting the full, sweeping skirt. Becky is a senior at Solanco High School.

Laura Sheaffer, 15, of New Holland, created a three-piece pants and blazer outfit in her ninth year of 4-H sewing. The notched-collar blazer with mock vent topped camel, tapered pants with front button waistband mock fly zipper, belt carriers, front pleat, side front pockets, and elastic stirrups. Her hunter-green, monogramed blouse completed the classic, casual outfit.

Terri Seibert, 14, Hershey, chose a brightly-colored fabric for her sundress with dropped waist bodice and princess seams. Special features of the Lebanon County girl's design were a back tie-bow and gathered shoulder straps. Terri is a sixth-year 4-H sewing member of the Kelly Helpers Club.

Lee Brandt, 14, of Manheim chose wool for his lined vest with welt pockets and back belt and matching straight-legged pants with side pockets, front pleats and back welt pocket. To top his long-sleeved, drop shouldered dress shirt, Lee fashioned an accenting necktie. Lee is a ninth-grade student at Palmyra High School.

Junior winner Tanya Thoman, 12, Dallastown, designed her jacket and shorts suit of print cotton-polyester. A wide, white, lace-trimmed collar topped the loose-fitting, button jacket, worn over mid-knee shorts with front pleats, elastic back and side pockets. Tanya, a five-year 4-H seamstress, completed her outfit by sewing a cotton-poly knit pullover top.

Charity Irvin, 12, of Ephrata, styled her double-breasted bodice dress in peach and white polka-dot. She added side seam pockets in the softly-pleated skirt, a notched collar of the reverse polka-dot fabric, and finished her dress with short back ties. An eighth-grader at Ephrata Middle School, Charity is a five-year 4-H sewing veteran.

Elizabeth Klaassen, 12, of New Holland styled an above-knee length dress in a flower-garden print of cotton broadcloth. The shaped bodice with dropped waistline topped a flared skirt and elbow sleeves finished with lace. Elizabeth is a seventh-grade student at Garden Spot Middle School.

Gabrielle Wells, 10, of New Oxford, opted for a casual romper design. Fashioned of cotton, the romper featured a gathered waist-

Handle Vegetables With Care

Today, due to high tech transportation and improved agricultural techniques, we have a great variety of fresh produce available all year round. Produce counters are overflowing with exotic fruits and vegetables that were unknown twenty years ago.

However, nothing beats the flavor and texture of locally grown produce. That means, for those of us that live where seasons change, summer is the prime time of year to eat vegetables. Farmers do their best to raise the largest and the tastiest varieties. It's up to the consumer to preserve the quality of vegetables after they purchase them. How vegetables are handled can make a big difference in both flavor and nutrient content.

Remember vegetables, like people, age. Too much heat, light, moisture or air can deplete even the choicest produce. As soon as vegetables are harvested, chemical changes begin to take place.

Vegetables do not act the same after they are picked. Tomatoes, picked before maturity keep on ripening, while sweet peas will lose sugar and turn tough soon after harvest. Potatoes and carrots are geared toward a dormant stage. In certain cases, nutrient losses begin to take place as soon as the vegetables are harvested.

The ideal situation would be to have our own gardens and be able to pick our vegetables at their peak of ripeness and eat them almost immediately. Since many of us cannot do that, we need to handle and preserve vegetables in the best way we can.

Begin by selecting wisely. Bruised, wilted produce has suffered vitamin loss. Misshapen, undersized or oversized items can be inferior in taste and texture. Try not to overbuy. If you buy more than you can use in a few days, the quality will be lost.

When you get vegetables home, never leave them sitting out on the kitchen table. Produce requires, cool, dark storage in high humidity. If your refrigerator is small and you cannot get to the market frequently, you may be better off purchasing frozen vegetables.

Frozen vegetables are picked at their peak of ripeness and frozen by food manufacturers soon after they are harvested so they maintain their color, texture and taste and most of their nutrient content. Frozen vegetables should be stored in freezers where the temperature is zero degrees Fahrenheit or lower to maintain their quality and used within one year from purchase.

To maintain the nutritional value of fresh or frozen vegetables, cook them in as little water as possible, in as little time as possible and in a covered pan. Cooking vegetables in a microwave oven or stir-frying them helps to preserve flavor, crispness and nutrients.

Check Intake Of Aspartame

One of the most common questions asked relating to food is - What is "aspartame" and how much is too much?

Aspartame (NutraSweet) is the most widely used artificial sweetener in food products in the United States. To help consumers determine just what moderate amounts are, an Acceptable Daily Intake (ADI) level of 50 milligrams (MG) per kilogram (kg) body weight has been established by the Food and Drug Administration. The ADI is thought to be the most aspartame you can safely consume on a daily basis.

Here is how to determine your ADI:

1. Convert weight in pounds to kilograms. For example, a 120 pound adult would weigh 55.5 kilograms. 120 lbs./2.2 = 55.5 kilograms.

2. Multiply weight in kilograms by 50: 55.5 kg x 50 - 2,775.

The acceptable Daily Intake for this 120 pound adult is 2,775 mg of aspartame per day. Follow the same steps to determine your ADI.

Since manufacturers are not required to list the amount of aspartame in a product, it is difficult to know how much aspartame you consume each day. To estimate your intake, use the approximations in the table below. In addition, look for the symbol of NutraSweet on food packages, and contact the manufacturers for more specific information.

Approximate Amount of Aspartame in Some Popular Foods:

Product	Serving Size	Aspartame Content (mg)
Equal®	1 packet	35
Sugar-free jello	4 ounces	50-100
Diet soda	12 ounces	140-200
Sugar-free pudding	4 ounces	80-100
Sugar-free powdered drinks	6 ounces	90-140
Sugar-free Cereal	1 cup	45-55

line, lined bodice, gathered puff sleeves and back tie sash over the back zipper. Contrasting collar, bow and leg bands added extra accent. Gabrielle's winning garment was her third 4-H sewing project.

Andy Miller, 12, of New Oxford chose nylon supples for his wind suit. Leg and waist elastic added comfort to the warm-up pants, while the jacket featured a set-in yoke with contrast collar and patch pocket. A white knit rugby shirt completed the outfit. A five-year sewing member, Andy is a seventh-grader at New Oxford Junior High.

Judges for the junior division were Diane Conner, Jean Gerdes, and Ruth Jackson, while Sue Beshai, Darlene Grube and Chris Kinney scored the senior entries.

To a small portion of the mixture, add eggs and blend well. Add to remaining custard. Cook 1 minute longer. Blend custard in a food processor or blender to eliminate any lumps. Add vanilla and cool completely in refrigerator. Stir in juice. Pour into a gallon container and freeze until firm.

Watermelon is one of the oldest fruits known to man. It's a world favorite that is grown on five continents. But it's a fruit with a secret — it's really a vegetable, cousin to a cucumber and kin to a gourd.

Few fruits or vegetables are as great tasting and nutritious as the watermelon. Only 45 calories per serving, it's a storehouse of vitamin C and potassium, with no fat or cholesterol.

Most like to eat it plain, but watermelon is an ideal match for many aromatic spices and vinegars, as well as onions, garlic and cilantro.

In celebration of one of the oldest fruits known to man, the third annual Watermelon Festival will be held in Shartlesville on August 1 and 2. The festival includes "all you can eat watermelon for free," prizes for fun and games center around watermelon, and lots of watermelon paraphernalia will be displayed. Look for the article about the festival in this section.

Here is one of the watermelon recipes, from the National Watermelon Promotion Board, that will be distributed at the Festival.

"Microwave Magic"

By:
Carol Stark

While the children are home for the summer, why not whip up a batch of muffins for breakfast? Microwaving muffins is easy, as well as fast, for a quick pick-me-up breakfast. To add color and flavor to muffins and cupcakes, which do not brown in the microwave, ingredients such as cornmeal, molasses, chocolate, cranberries and apricots, to name a few, are mixed in. Toppings such as marmalade or cinnamon-sugar are added before microwaving. Muffin tops may be dipped in a coating. Muffins can be made into individual upside-down cakes too - such as Butterscotch Pecan Puffs. Custard cups hold slightly more batter than muffin rings. You can improvise your reusable muffin ring by cutting hot-drink paper cups down to 2-inches high. Place a paper liner in each cup and arrange them in a circle on a plate for easy rotating.

BUTTERSCOTCH-PECAN PUFFS

1/4 cup margarine or butter
1/4 cup packed brown sugar
18 pecan halves
Ground cinnamon
1 cup buttermilk baking mix
1/3 cup cold water
2 to 3 teaspoons grated orange peel

Arrange 6 six-ounce custard cups in circle on 12-inch plate. Place 2 teaspoons margarine in each cup. Microwave uncovered on high (100 percent) until margarine is melted, about 1 minute. Place 2 teaspoons brown sugar and 3 pecan halves in each cup; sprinkle with cinnamon. Microwave uncovered on high (100 percent) until hot and bubbly, 1 to 2 minutes.

Mix baking mix, water, and orange peel until soft dough forms; beat vigorously 20 strokes. Spoon evenly onto mixture in cups. Microwave uncovered on high (100 percent) 1 minute; rotate plate 1/2 turn. Microwave until tops spring back when touched lightly, 1 to 2 minutes longer. Immediately invert cups on serving plate; leave cups over puffs a few minutes.

CINNAMON PUFFS

1/4 cup milk
1 egg
2 tablespoons sugar
1 tablespoon margarine butter - softened
1/4 cup sugar

Mix baking mix, milk, egg, sugar, margarine and nutmeg. Stir until smooth, about 15 seconds. Fill muffin cups 1/2 full. Microwave uncovered on high (100 percent) 1 minute; rotate plate 1/4 turn. Microwave until tops spring back when touched lightly, 1 to 2 minutes longer. Remove puffs.

Mix 1/4 cup sugar and the cinnamon. Dip tops of puffs into melted margarine, then into cinnamon sugar mixture.

Beat egg; stir in milk and vegetable oil. Stir in remaining ingredients except cinnamon sugar all at once just until flour is moistened (batter will be lumpy). Fill muffin cups about 1/2 full. Sprinkle with cinnamon sugar.

Microwave uncovered on high (100 percent) 1 minute; rotate plate 1/2 turn. Microwave until wooden pick inserted in center comes out clean, 30 to 60 seconds longer. (Parts of the muffins will appear moist but will continue to cook while standing.) Let stand 1 minute; remove to rack. Repeat with remaining batter and additional cupcake liners.

CINNAMON SUGAR: Mix 1 tablespoon granulated sugar and 1/8 teaspoon ground cinnamon.

CRANBERRY-ORANGE MUFFINS: Stir in 1 cup cranberry halves and 1 tablespoon grated orange peel with the milk. Sprinkle tops with cinnamon sugar before microwaving.

DATE-NUT MUFFINS: Stir in 3/4 cup chopped dates and 1/2 cup finely chopped nuts with the milk. Increase sugar to 2/3 cup. Sprinkle tops with cinnamon sugar and 1/4 cup finely chopped nuts before microwaving.

Repeat with remaining batter and additional cake liners.

Clean Filters For Summer

Believe it or not, the number one cause of service calls on room air conditioners is one that usually can be remedied by the consumer: a dirty or clogged air filter! If that filter isn't cleaned regularly, it will become clogged, greatly reducing the unit's efficiency and ability to cool and recirculate air.

To avoid this... check and clean the filter every two to three weeks during the cooling season. First remove the filter from the unit (it's a good idea to check your owner's manual for instructions on how to do this). Next, vacuum or shake as much dust and dirt off the filter as possible. And finally, if it's a washable filter, wash it in a solution of mild detergent and warm water, rinse well, and dry thoroughly before returning it to the unit.

A special note: if the filter appears to be worn out, or too soiled to wash clean, replace it.

VELVET BERRY CUSTARD PIE

9-inch unbaked deep pie shell

Arrange berries in a pie shell. Beat eggs, sugar, and vanilla together in a bowl. Scald milk. Pour milk gradually into sugar and egg mixture, stirring constantly. Pour hot mixture over berries.

Bake 5 minutes in 475 degree preheated oven. Reduce temperature to 425 degrees and bake 15 more minutes. To test for doneness, insert knife into custard halfway between center and edge. Center will quiver, it will finish cooking as it cools. Do not overbake or custard will become watery. Serves 8.

Fill a pastry-lined 9-inch pie plate with the pear mixture. To make topping, combine flour; ½ cup sugar, and spices. Cut in butter until mixture resembles coarse crumbs. Spinkle crumbs over pear filling. Cover edge of pie with foil. Bake in preheated 375 degree oven for 25 minutes. Remove foil; bake for an additional 25 to 30 minutes or until pie is bubbly and crust is golden. Cool on a wire rack before serving. Serves 8.

WATERMELON ICE CREAM PIE

24 graham cracker squares
¼ cup corn oil margarine
1 cup watermelon
1 quart vanilla ice cream, softened

Blend four crackers on low speed 10 to 15 seconds or until fine crumbs form. Empty into medium bowl. Repeat process with remaining crackers. In small saucepan, melt margarine. Remove from heat. Add cracker crumbs; mix until crumbs form ball. Press mixture into 9-inch pie plate. Refrigerate 1 hour. Place watermelon in blender. Blend on low speed for 30 seconds. Swirl mixture through ice cream. Firmly pack ice cream into crust. Cover. Freeze several hours or until firm. Makes one 9-inch pie. Sprinkle top with graham cracker crumbs before serving.

INDEPENDENCE SALAD

Cut a 1-inch slice from a fresh watermelon. Cut the slice in half and remove the rind. Divide the watermelon into five equal wedges and place them in a star pattern with the wide ends together. There will be an opening in the center. Fill this with a generous scoop of cottage cheese and sprinkle with fresh blueberries for a red, white, and blue summer salad.

TAKING TIME

Extension Home Economist

Heat Wave Helpers

As you read this, is the perspiration beading on your forehead?

For the last few weeks, weather in the Lehigh Valley has been so humid. My body has been rebelling as I leave my cool office each evening and head for my non-air-conditioned home.

So what's the solution? For many... cool water. As my grandpa would sing, "Cool, clear water." Fortunately, we don't have the drought problems that we've had in past summers. We still do need to use our water wisely, but we can afford to have a little fun, too.

First, a few safety tips regarding water activities. Each year 5,500 people drown. Most of these individuals are 15-44 years old. In the 5-14 year-old age group, drowning is the second most common cause of death. The risk needs to be taken seriously. Did you know, a child can drown in as little as six inches of water. The Consumer Products Safety Commission has reported drownings in jacuzzis, basins and buckets among other places.

If you own a pool or pond where people swim, it is a good idea to keep a rope, long pole and ring buoy by the edge, ready for an emergency. Concerned owners should also enforce a rule of "No Running" on the deck. Be sure to also follow the buddy system, whether swimming in the pool, fishing in a stream, or boating in a lake.

The time and money you spend for swimming lessons for your children and yourself is a valuable investment.

Other safety tips include drinking lots of water during hot days, so your body has the liquids it needs to help it perspire. This is you bodys natural cooling system. Give it all the help it needs! Remember not to operate electrical appliances while playing with water. And when outside, wear sunscreen. Water is reflective and a person can burn easily.

Now let's see what kind of family fun we can have around water. Pre-schoolers love playing with water. Besides being fun, playing with water actually is a learning experience for them. On a hot summer afternoon, give them permission to dig in a corner of the flower bed or garden and make a mud hole. Give them permission to get dirty and wet. If you have a sand box, you may use that instead. Watch how they squish the mud or sand through their fingers and toes. Listen to the laughter. When is the last time you squished mud through your toes? Want to join them?

Hot days are perfect times for car washes. Families can really enjoy each other's company as they work. Don't forget to wear swimming suits or clothes and shoes that are old. When you finish, you can hold a wet sponge toss (similar to an egg toss or water balloon toss--but safer). Wagons, tricycles, and bikes can be washed too. Remember the safety check above. Avoid accidents. Empty the buckets as soon as the activity is complete.

Young children will gladly spend hours "helping" you paint or clean. When working outdoors, give them a dish with water and a brush. Watch as they "paint" a wall or fence or scrub a sidewalk. Be sure to tell them it's okay to get wet in the process.

Take a stream or lake hike. Find a calm, shallow spot in the stream and explore it. You may want to wear old sneakers if the bottom is rocky. Use a kitchen strainer or plastic cups to see what creatures you can find. If you are daring, lift rocks along the creek bed. Do any animals live under them? Once you've explored, it is a good idea to return the animals to the water.

After a fun day including water play, you may want to treat yourself to a tall glass of ice water and read a book with your children or grandchildren to close the day. I sugguest: Fishing at Long Pond by William and Lindsey George (Pennsylvanian authors) and Earth Verses and Water Rhymes by J. Patrick Lewis. These should both be available at your local public library.

These two children's titles will give you a few moments to share in a story and reflect on the day, and how you stayed cool--enjoying cool, clear water.

You can make curds and whey like Little Miss Muffet ate.

Spoon yogurt into a cloth bag. Gather the ends together and hold closed with a rubber band.

With the large pin or paper clip, attach the bag to a cupboard door or other hook so that it can hang suspended overnight. Put a bowl under the bag to catch the liquid (whey).

The next day, unwrap the curds. It will appear creamier than cottage cheese and would have to be cut up to look more similar.

The curds have a pleasingly tangy taste and are safe to eat.

TEST FOODS FOR FAT

Here is a fun way to test foods for fat.

Rub two or three drops of oil or a little bit of shortening on a piece of brown wrapping paper.

On another piece of brown wrapping paper, rub two or three drops of water.

On a third piece of brown wrapping paper, rub a shelled nut.

After the water has dried, hold that piece of paper up to the light. Can you see the spot where the water was? If so, let it dry longer.

After the water spot disappears, hold up the pieces of paper that were rubbed with oil and shortening and with a nut. Can you still see where they were rubbed on the paper?

Karen Kinnane prepares for the third annual Watermelon Festival to be held in Sharlesville on August 1 and 2. The Festival includes displays of watermelon furniture and artifacts, quilts, pot holders, and more — all in red and green.

Festival Promotes Watermelon Fun

LOU ANN GOOD
Lancaster Farming Staff

SHARTLESVILLE (Berks Co.) — Each American eats about 13 pounds of watermelon every year.

If Karen Kinnane has her way, those who attend the third annual Watermelon Festival in Shartlesville will eat much more than the national average.

In addition to free watermelon slices, she will distribute numerous recipes from the National Watermelon Board, which has come up with novel ways to use watermelon for breakfast, lunch, dinner, and in-between times.

Although considered a fruit by most people, watermelon is really a vegetable, cousin to a cucumber and kin to a gourd.

Small watermelons were first cultivated in Massachusetts in 1629. Though not as sweet as today's melons, the colonists used every part· The rind was pickled; the juice was drunk; the seeds were toasted for snacks, and of course, the flesh was eaten with relish. It is reported that Confederate soldiers boiled down watermons to make sugar and molasses during the Civil War.

Today's melons are at least twice as sweet and three times the size of those early varieties.

"The world's largest watermelon grown by Vernon Conrad of Bixbie, Oklahoma, weighed 255 pounds.

Although melons of that size are not expected at the Shartlesville Festival, Kinnane does promise a cash prize to the person who raises the largest watermelon and brings it to the festival.

Those who attend the Festival will discover that there's more to watermelon than eating it. In addition to free slices of watermelon, there are exhibits of watermelon art, watermelon furniture, quilts, crafts, a seed spitting contest, and a watermelon carving contest.

The Festival is free. Whoever enters one of Shartlesville's stores will receive a ticket for a free hot dog, a slice of watermelon or a cup of lemonade. Visitors can also drink as much Gatorade as they desire.

"If a person enters the same store 10 times, they will get 10 tickets," Kinnane said. "I would rather have people all over Pennsylvania bragging I went to the Watermelon Festival and ate 18 free hot dogs because it is such inexpensive advertising and people are tired of going to places that cost so much. Our theory is that you can spend a good part of the day here without spending a dollar. You can feed your family all they can possibly eat. You can go in every store and look at the displays and not spend a cent — of course, we hope some do buy things, but mostly we want people to know what's available here."

Crafts persons will display antique and collectable watermelon artifacts. Watermelon tee shirts, hats, salt shakers and other items will be sold.

A seed spitting contest will be held at 3 p.m. on both August 1 and 2.

Kinnane asked, "Did you know that Jack Deitz of Chicago holds the world's record (66' and 11") for spitting a watermelon seed?"

She doesn't expect anyone who attends the festival will come close to the record, but she does expect competition to be lots of fun.

If you can't grow the largest melon or spit the farthest, you still have a chance to win a prize in the watermelon carving contest. Special carving kits are avaible for those who need some help in creativity.

These kits include patterns to carve watermelon lanterns, which Kinnane refers to as "watermelon lights for evening delight."

"I'm always looking for ways to encourage people to use Pennsylvania products," said Kinnane who planned the Festival to coincide with National Watermelon Month.

She is also always looking for ways to entice people to visit Sharlesville that has become notorious for its seven Victorian-style shops painted in brilliant shades such as hot pink and purple color schemes. The houses are called "Painted Ladies," in reference to Victorian homes painted in a mixture of colors that first appeared in California and later spread to the Cape May area in New Jersey.

"Some of the local people don't appreciate the color, but the color brings out the intricate carving on the gingerbread trim and makes tourists stop and take a look," Kinnane said.

Kinnane's quest is to revive the town and to do so, it must become trendy, she insists.

"Tourists do three things. They eat, sightsee, and shop. I want them to do it in this town," she said.

Kinnane employs women to sew and quilt pot holders, pillows, and quilts so that tourist can buy local products rather than items made in Hong Kong and other countries under slave labor.

She also has local families make jams, pickled watermelon rind, and other Pennsylvania Dutch foods to sell in her country store.

Festival hours on August 1 and 2 are 11 a.m. until 6 p.m. on Saturday and Sunday. All activities are held under cover, rain or shine at the Painted Ladies buildings on Main Street. Free map and list of attractions available at show.

Shartlesville is located on Interstate 78 at Exit 8. It is 45 miles east of Harrisburg, 35 miles west of Allentown, and 15 miles north of Reading.

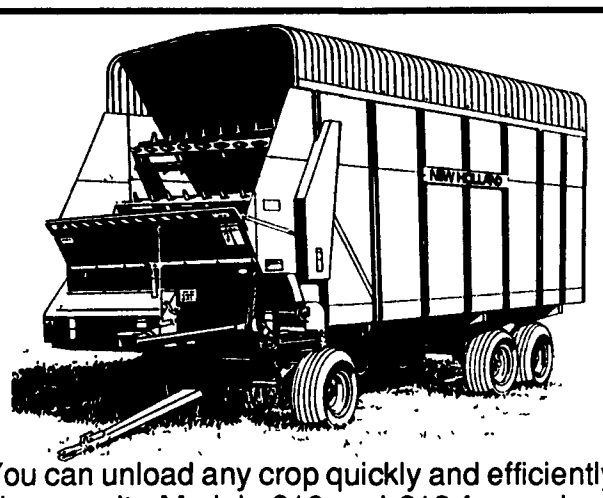
Forage Harvester

When it comes to harvesting, you can't beat the heavy-duty performance that's built into the New Holland Model 790 forage harvester. Performance starts at the cutterhead. The 19 11/16-inch wide, 12-knife cutterhead delivers a fine uniform chop that's just right for most silage feeding operations. And an electric clutch gives instant response and positive control on the reversing gearbox. The Model 790 is available with either a 540-rpm or a 1000-rpm PTO drive.

Forage Harvester

If you custom harvest as well as chop your own forage, a self-propelled harvester like the Model 1915 can help you harvest more crop at peak quality. The fuel-efficient 270-horsepower diesel engine and the 24-inch, 12-knife cutterhead give you high-capacity day-in and day-out harvesting. And the exclusive automatic knife sharpener and automatic shearbar adjuster, called Accucut™, combine to give you precision-sharpened knives and a reset shearbar, all from the comfort of the cab.



Forage Box

You can unload any crop quickly and efficiently with the new big-capacity Models 816 and 818 forage boxes from Ford New Holland. Roller chain drive provides unloading speeds of 3.0 and 7.1 feet-per-minute. And tough Duraply sides flex under heavy loads for season-after-season dependability. The "816" and "818" unload from the front and come standard with three self-aligned beaters and baked-enamel galvanized roof.

Forage Blower

Every minute you can save at the blower means more loads per day and more overall productivity. Let us demonstrate the New Holland Model 40 forage blower and we believe you'll agree you can increase your silage productivity.

The Model 40, with 20 percent greater tip speed than previous models, center fills silos over 80 feet high.

Backstage With A Play Costumer

Gay N. Brownlee
Somerset Co. Correspondent

JENNERSTOWN - (Somerset Co.) — Lindy Dipre worked for six years as a customer at the Mountain Playhouse-a popular live-play theatre-creating numerous costumes for big city actors who usually came from New York for the summer theatre schedule. At the end of the 1991 season, she decided it was time for a break from the ultra-demanding position.

So she found a part-time job with a local sewing center, a job where Lindy says she can still learn new things, yet has an opportunity to do some teaching. More important she can spend time with her wonderful family.

She misses the playhouse in a sense because, despite the demands, her job was constantly challenging her ability and she made more friends than she could count.

"I think I fell in love with everyone down there (the playhouse was only half a mile down the hill from town)," she says. "They (actors) have so much respect for what you do. That is why I miss the job. I miss the people." She adds, "I miss the learning and creating...not the pressure."

Now Lindy says she's in the process of updating her professional wardrobe, because all she had left in it were scruffies from working in the crude basement of the 1805 restored gristmill for which the Mountain Playhouse is famed.

Lindy says she got volunteered into the job of helping at the playhouse when her son, who was 14, got the part of an orphan in "Carousel." A dresser (assistant to the costumer, helping actors with rapid clothing changes and fast mending of buttons, rips, and so forth), was needed for the play. Lindy agreed to do it and became a regular volunteer dresser for two years. That experience lead her to being hired as the costumer when it became known that she could sew.

Little could Lindy know she would be rising to a new challenge with every play. "I kept studying and ordering every book I saw on costuming," she says.

Gaining confidence in other aspects of the position took a bit more time. She initially had to work with a little broken iron and she worried about spending money, but found that she needed to assert herself in the position. Later, she went and purchased whatever she needed.

"For people who love the theatre, they should always go backstage. They have no idea how much work goes into it," states Lindy. "When you want to make fast changes (of costumes), you might have 30 seconds." She had to be at absolutely every performance of any play.

Before any play could be run, however, all costumes for it were the responsibility of Lindy. And she had only 10 days to make them between separate plays. If the play was a new one she made all new costumes. If not, then all costumes had to be altered to fit the actors and it wasn't possible to measure bodies until reheasals for it began.

"In one play one man was 13 different characters," she recalls. "Trying to get ready for that show was scary."

"I've sewed girls into dresses while they were waiting to go on stage," she laughs.

One hilarious experience was preparing a man who was to have cottage cheese thrown on him every night. "You can't use real cottage cheese," says the innovator. "We ended up using styrofoam bits and watered down shaving cream." She says it cleaned up fast off the costumes, was easily replaced and didn't leave a nasty, sour smell behind.

Another time, in "The Foreigner," a man had to melt but his costume had to stay on stage. In the back of her play book Lindy says it suggested using weights and wiring for achieving success in the crazy endeavor. Somehow they managed to pull it off with a hole in the floor for him to slide out of the costume. Making the costume stiff enough to remain on stage was all up to Lindy's imagination and innovative prowess.

During one play, her personal feelings got a jolt she says. She was required to construct five Ku Klux Klan costumes. It took a lot of effort to seperate her own values from those represented in the flowing robes, she says.

"'Oklahoma' was my nightmare!" states Lindy, who had to enlist the help of her mother and sister to construct voluminous gowns for the musical. She would rise at 6 a.m. to cut out the big dresses for them to start sewing at 8 a.m. Then she would be at the playhouse until midnight or 2 a.m. If garments needed to be laundered Lindy had to take them home, wash, and iron them before the next performance.

To make period attire Lindy drove to a place in Altoona and bought drapery material.

For another play, Lindy says she had 18 white shirts to wash, iron and make sure all buttons were secure.

Some of the actors would sweat so bad, she says, that once a tie faded onto an undershirt, and another time the fellow rusted his belt buckle.

"Out Of This World" was the play that Lindy found the most enjoyable. She says she made a god a day for it, and had a barrel of fun.

If any costume glitch occured during a scene, Lindy had to act fast to repair it, sometimes in mere seconds.

During "Playing Doctor" there were 13 costume changes which Lindy describes as being exhausting work.

Also memorable for Lindy was dressing "Mame" while sidestepping about 15 water buckets catching the drips from a leaking roof.

Off season storage ot costumes was in two trailers near the unique, rural theatre. There was one for the men's and one for the women's wardrobe. Lindy was responsible for storage and cleaning the trailers. Without fail she found that rodents had a heyday over the winter with some garments. They always found a way inside where they nibbled happily to the ruination of fur and wool clothes which Lindy had spent hour after hour constructing.

Another critter finding attachment to the old structure despite the presence of human beings was a mother skunk who ambled at will around the place, particularly downstairs in the tight little dressing rooms and passageways. While regarding the skunk with utmost skepticism and respect, the staff and cast at the playhouse adapted to her presence. She was not provoked into exercising her vitriolic defense mechanism.

Then one day she appeared at the door with her five babies. Cute as they were, the fact that each one had its tail in the air was enough to signal alarm. "The mother we trust," said Lindy, "the babies... we're not sure." She says that experience was a hoot for everybody.

"You do a lot of mommy stuff," says Lindy in regard to being supportive of the actors. She says often they need comforting or they have a headache and you help them in any way you can. And every year Lindy entertained them in her home, cooking them a dinner.

"I was awful as a kid," says Lindy about her early foray into sewing. "I kept messing up the machine." Now the mother of four children says, "I love to make clothes."

She is excited about learning anything new like the crewel embroidery she's currently working on. A quilt project begun four years ago is finally finished. The patches in it are the birds and flowers of the 50 states. Those were completed in 1975.

"I enjoy being a housewife, too," she says. "Now I have time for my family." She praises her husband, Fred, and their children, David, Deanna, Danielle and Dawn, for being so supportive of anything she has wanted to do.

Lindy is pictured on the front enclosed porch fussing with an afghan she made.

Daughters Danielle, seated, and Dawn wear costumes made by their mother, Lindy Dipre.

Why Ice Cream Helps For Life's Long Haul

SOUTHAMPTON (Bucks Co.) — In a recent interview with General James Harold (Jimmy) Doolittle age 95, when asked what had been the main thrust of his life, Doolittle replied, "To fill a purpose. To try to make the world a better place." As for his durability, he said, "Ice cream helps."

"Ice cream does help!" states Althea Zanecosky, nutrition media specialist/registered dietitian, of Dairy Council in Southampton. "Ice cream not only helps give cool relief as summer temperatures rise, but now consumers can choose from a variety of low fat versions that are available," she explains.

Advances in technology have allowed manufacturers to omit most or all of the fat in the newer frozen confections. In the past, the only lower-fat alternative to ice cream was ice milk. For a product to be called ice cream it must contain 10% butterfat; ice milk on the other hand, has 2 to 7% butterfat. Zanecosky explains that today's newer selections have 0% butterfat; these new products rely on skim milk instead of cream as their main ingredient or employ the recently approved fat substitute, Simplesse. "If you make a habit of dishing up a scoop or two of ice cream every night, the fat and calorie savings these streamlined products offer can be helpful."

Zanecosky notes that if you crave regular or gourmet ice cream, there is no reason to feel guilty about it. You are not alone — consumption of super premium ice cream has increased steadily. Just be sensible and keep portion sizes small and indulgences occasional. "And remember, there is no such thing as a *free*frozen treat. Though there may be less fat, the calories remain."

Ida's Notebook

Ida Risser

We've just come home from a week in Canada. On our way north, we stopped at Hyde Park in New York. This was the home of Franklin D. Roosevelt, our 32nd president. It is very large and a museum has been built nearby to house the artifacts of both Franklin and his wife, Eleanor. It contains everything from ship models, baby clothes, and his coin collection to his 1936 hand controlled Ford.

One day we had an early morning cruise on the blue waters of Lake George. The water in the 32 mile long lake is pure enough to drink. There were many summer homes along the shoreline.

There were only 17 people on a tour bus big enough for 40. One member of our group was a 94-year-old lady from Elizabethtown. Somehow, Allen and I became her caretakers as the other folks didn't want to be bothered. She was well for her age but her eyesight was not very good.

We had a guided tour of both Montreal and of Quebec City. The only day that it rained was the one when we were to explore the city on our own. So, we walked from one building to another at the Citadel. This is a very old fort started in 1608 and it has four gates into the city. Quebec is built on different levels with 22 stairs leading to the old part on a lower level. We used the funiculaire to go to "Upper Town" built entirely on a cliff.

We saw several large cathedrals on our trip and the "Old Man of the Mountains" in the White Mountains of New Hampshire One enjoyable evening was a dinner cruise on beautiful Lake Winnipesaukee. The ship M/S Mount Washington took us for a 65 mile moonlit cruise on the lake that has over 300 islands.

Now that we are home we find too much work. I picked five gallons of old green beans and five gallons of sugar peas which must be frozen. And, there are loads of weeds to be pulled.

96 Compete In Regional 4-H Presentation Night

BETH MILLER
Adams Co. Correspondent

NEW KINGSTON (Cumberland Co.) — Nine Central Pennsylvania 4-H'ers who talked about everything from refrigerators to bicycles came away winners from the Capital Region 4-H Public Speaking and Presentation Night.

The event was held July 16, at Cumberland Valley High School near New Kingston in Cumberland County. Those who won gold ribbons in the competition are eligible to compete in the state contest later this summer at Penn State University.

There were 96 participants in the Capital Region event, which was open to 4-H club members from Cumberland, Adams, York, Franklin, Dauphin, Lebanon, and Lancaster counties.

Gold ribbon winners were those whose presentations received 98 to 100 percent from panels of judges.

Those top winners were Spring Younts of Lancaster County, Hannah Stauffer and Karen Reed of York County, who did a joint presentation; Joyce Watson of Lebanon County, Joshua Hercher of Dauphin County, Vanessa Debnam of York County, Kandi Mullen of Lancaster County, and Jason Blatt and Mike Blecker of Lebanon County, who also did a team presentation.

The title of Watson's presentation was "A Chilling Choice." That fit perfectly because her topic was how to buy a refrigerator.

Watson talked about how to do research on refrigerators by using books and the Consumer Reports Guide. She also talked about comparing prices and how to understand owner's manuals and warranties.

Hercher discussed bicycle safety issues, like following the rules of the road, watching out of debris, installing rear reflectors, inspecting brakes regularly and using proper safety equipment, especially helmets.

Debnam's topic was "What Kind of Shape are You In?" She covered proper nutrition, exercise and how to have fun while eating right and working out.

Blatt and Blecker talked about tractor safety. Mullen won for public speaking.

Younts won in the Animal Science and clothing portion of the contests. Stauffer and Reed took their gold ribbon in the Animal Science and Foods category.

In addition to the senior winners, there were nine gold ribbon winners in the Junior Division.

The junior winners do not get to advance to the contest at Penn State, however.

Brett Frey of York County won in the general competition for juniors. Jennifer Creek of Cumberland County took top honors in the Clothing, Plant Science and Home Economics category.

Michelle Cornman of Cumberland County won in the public speaking event.

Sandra Anderson and Rebecca Cornman of Cumberland County carried away gold ribbons with a team demonstration in the Foods and Nutrition competition.

The other gold ribbon winners also were in the Foods and Nutrition event.

They were Eugenia Beck, Denise Lauer, and Mandy Brown, all of York County, and Amy Habecker of Lebanon County.

These senior winners will advance to state competition: from left first row, Jason Blatt, Mike Blecker, Vanessa Debnam, and Kandi Mullen. Second row, Hannah Stauffer, Karen Reed, Spring Younts, and Megan East. Last row, Joshua Hercher and Joyce Watson.

A Blueberry A Day

A team of Israeli scientists recently found that the blueberry has bacteria-fighting properties that aid in preventing urinary tract infections. Like cranberries, blueberries contain two compounds that weaken or partially control E. coli, the chief cause of such infections, by keeping the bacteria from clinging to the cells lining the urinary and digestive tract. Seven other fruit juices were analyzed but only juices from the genus Vaccinium contained the two compounds.

Farm Women Societies

Lancaster Society 20

On Thursday, July 2, Lancaster Farm Women #20 met at the home of Nancy Axe with Vivian Trout as co-hostess. Following the refreshments including homemade ice cream Velma Goss read from the 8th to 12th verses of the 33rd Psalm and had a reading "Ice Cream Making." In response to the Roll Call each responded with a safety tip.

The speaker for the program was Steve Echternach who gave many pointers for safety.

The president, Vera Herr, presided at the business meeting. It was reported that $123 was made at the garage sale a few weeks ago in Strasburg. Pauline Reinhart reported 3 cards and one dish of fruit were sent during the month. A picnic at the Kirkwood Park will be held on August 6 for members.

Berks Society 1

Berks Society 1 of Farm Women met for a doggie roast at the home of Ruth Walters.

Our next meeting will be held at the home of Grace Schaeffer's with a safety meeting presented by Met Ed.

The annual picnic will be held at Levengood's Grove on August 16, at noon for members and families.

A committee was appointed to nominate officers for the group. Ella Grace and Joan are on the committee.

New member Kim Galloway was installed.

Berks Society 4

Berks County Society 4 of Farm Women met at the home of Mary Fizz, Boyertown. A brown bag auction was held.

President Elsie Rothenberger reported thank you notes were received from Rebecca Gehman and Lynn Voth for the home economics awards they received.

The next meeting on August 8 will be a picnic at the home of Verna Taylor in Loysville, Perry County.

Breakfast Skippers Have Higher Cholesterol

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Most of us grew up being told to "eat your breakfast." Already studies have shown that eating breakfast is associated with improved overall nutritional status, while skipping breakfast may impair academic performance. In addition, research on adults has shown that breakfast skippers may have higher total cholesterol levels than breakfast eaters, despite lower fat and cholesterol intake.

A recent study examined the link between children's breakfast habits and their blood cholesterol levels. The subjects included 530 children from New York and Georgia. Their ages ranged from 9 to 19 years. The children were asked to complete a checklist of 124 breakfast and 48 snack foods they usually ate. They also completed a 57-item questionnaire to assess nutrition and breakfast knowledge and attitudes.

Breakfast Eating Categories

based on the food checklist, each child's responses were classified into one of the following six categories:

1) Breakfast Skipper
2) Ready-To-Eat Cereal with Fiber
3) Traditional Breakfast
4) Chips or Sweets
5) Other Ready-To-Eat Cereal
6) Mixed Breakfasts

A ready-to-eat cereal with fiber was one that contained at least 2 grams of dietary fiber per one-ounce serving. A traditional breakfast was one that consisted of eggs, bacon, sausage, ham, pancakes, waffles, and/or French toast. The chips or sweets category included foods such as potato chips, pretzels, corn chips, tortilla chips, Danish, doughnuts, candy, cookies, or pie. The mixed breakfasts category included either a mixture of foods from categories 2 through 5, or other foods like bread, fruit, or coffee.

The following table shows the distribution.

Breakfast Category	Percent of Subjects	Number
Breakfast Skipper	4%	22
Chips or Sweets	6%	34
Ready-To-Eat Cereal with Fiber	8%	43
Traditional Breakfast	12%	63
Other Ready-To-Eat Cereal	13%	68
Mixed Breakfasts	57%	300

Breakfast Habits and Plasma Cholesterol Level

Cholesterol levels were measured from nonfasting, fingerstick samples. The collection and analysis of the samples followed guidelines established by the National Cholesterol Education Program. The following table lists the mean total cholesterol level of each category of children.

Breakfast Category	Mean Cholesterol Level (mg/d)
Breakfast Skipper	172
Chips or Sweets	164
Mixed Breakfasts	163
Other Ready-To-Eat Cereal	160
Traditional Breakfast	157
Ready-To-Eat Cereal with Fiber	149

To Eat or Not to Eat

Compared to all five categories of breakfast eaters, the mean total cholesterol level of children who usually skipped breakfast was significantly higher when controlled for age, sex, and body mass. Breakfast eaters had mean cholesterol levels between 8 and 23 mg/dl lower than breakfast skippers - 5-13 percent difference. Of those who regularly ate breakfast, the highest mean cholesterol level was found in the "Chips or Sweets" group. Children who usually chose a ready-to-eat cereal with 2 grams or more of dietary fiber had significantly lower cholesterol levels than all other breakfast eaters pooled together.

Other Findings

* Breakfast skippers tended to snack on higher fat and lower fiber foods than those who ate breakfast.

* There were no significant differences in nutrition knowledge between breakfast eaters and skippers, or between any of the breakfast eating groups.

* Breakfast skippers were less likely than breakfast eaters to report that eating breakfast is important. Skippers also were less likely to say they should eat foods high in fiber.

We might expect some of the study's findings, given our present knowledge of eating patterns and cholesterol levels. The fact that higher fiber diets tend to reduce plasma cholesterol levels is well documented. The fact that breakfast skippers have higher cholesterol levels is less clear cut, but might partly be explained by previous research. It is felt that people who eat larger and fewer meals daily ("gorgers") versus those who eat smaller meals more often ("nibblers") may have higher cholesterol levels.

A major shortcoming of the study is not knowing what the children usually ate throughout the day. Breakfast habits are likely a reflection of one's daily eating habits. More research is needed to tease this larger relationship out. But in the meantime, this study supports the fact that we should teach and encourage children, in general, to eat diets lower in fat and higher in fiber, and to maintain a healthy body weight.

FFA HAPPENINGS

National FFA Award Goes To Local Student

A nationwide search among the country's best and brightest students yielded a local winner. Recognizing the need to award excellence, the National FFA Organization recently announced that Shelly Ogline of the Grassland FFA is the recipient of a $1,000 scholarship. The scholarship is sponsored by Walmart as a special project of the National FFA Foundation.

Shelly will use the scholarship funds to pursue a degree in environmental resource management at ennsylvania State University.

Shelly Ogline

Shelly, daughter of Dr. & Mrs. Philip Ogline, of Denver, received notice of the scholarship after a national panel judged her application among the best in the nation. Judging criteria included evaluation of Shelly's supervised agricultural experience program in agricultural education, FFA activities, school and community involvement, high school grades, and career plans. Shelly's FFA advisor is Clifford Day.

FFA'er Receives Gold

Lancaster Mennonite High School student James Hostetter, Jr. recently received a gold medal award at Penn State University during the FFA Week's extemporaneous public speaking contest.

To participate in the state contest, FFA contestants choose one of three available topics given by FFA contest officials. Contestants then have 30 minutes to prepare a four-to six-minute speech.

In his speech on "Technology in Agriculture," Hostetter commented about the influence of modern technology on the Lancaster County Amish community. He also spoke about the use of computers in dairy feeding and record keeping as well as other aspects of agriculture.

Hostetter, son of James and Mary Louise Hostetter, Holtwood, qualified for the state competition by placing second in a county speaking contest and first at the regional level. He was a member of the school's student council this past year and will be a senior at Lancaster Mennonite in the fall.

Three other students, along with LMH teacher Lehman Metzler, attended the annual FFA Week. They are Ryan Meck, son of Robert and Rose Meck, Strasburg (official chapter delegate to the state convention); Doug Rohrer, son of Kenneth and Carolyn Rohrer, Lancaster (for the dairy judging contest); and Wendall Landis, son of Abram and Dorothy Landis, Manheim (for the meat judging contest). This was the school's first participation in FFA Week since the school became a chartered FFA member in January.

LEADERSHIP AT WORK

Up Communications

The Columbia County 4-H County Council is an active group of teens and adult leaders who assist in the planning and implementation of many county events and activities.

Each year the incoming officers and leaders are sworn in during a structured installation ceremony. Columbia County Extension Program Assistant Linda Hendricks developed the 1992 installation ceremony, entitled "Communication — The Lines Are Open."

Installing officer, Brian Brecht, held a ball of yarn and spoke these words, "With this ball of yarn and your cooperation, it will become evident how the communication lines work within this organization. Each of you are an important part in helping keep communications between your club and this council active.

"Members and leaders of the Columbia County 4-H County Council, you have been chosen by your fellow members to fulfill the duties of the various offices within this council. I am confident that you will do your best to maintain the vision that O. H. Benson, superintendent of schools, Wright County, Iowa first had when he selected the four leaf clover as the symbol for the 4-H program. He added an H to each leaf of the clover for the head, heart, hands, and health of the 4-H pledge, which corresponds with the overall beliefs of the youth section of the Smith Lever Act."

The leaders and officers were called forward and given their orders to fulfill for the ensuing year. After the officers and leaders were instructed in their duties, they passed the ball of yarn along to the next person, thus creating several lines of communication.

Brecht ended the ceremony by stating, "As you can see, the lines between us are sometimes difficult to follow. It is our responsibility as officers, leaders, and members of this council to keep these lines open and accurate."

Nothing Runs Like a Deere

Comfort and convenience were two prime considerations when we designed the new John Deere F725 front mower. The powerful 20 hp overhead valve John Deere K-Series engine is liquid cooled for quieter operation and consistent performance in hot weather

The F725's exclusive hydrostatic transmission is controlled by two pedals allowing the operator to keep both hands on the steering wheel and both eyes on the job.

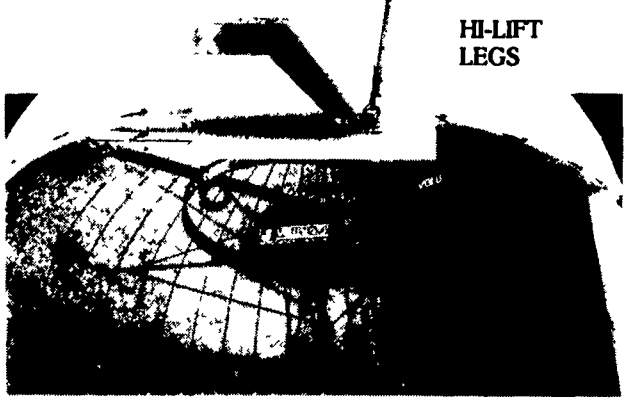
VOLUMAXX

GIVES YOU A CHOICE OF DISTRIBUTION

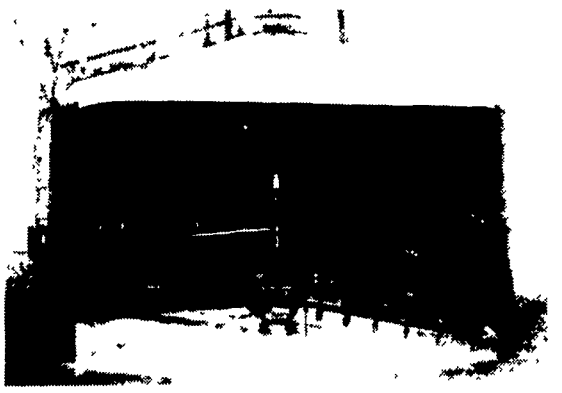


The new advance design Volumaxx unloader gives you the best of both worlds... your choice of distribution. New HI-LIFT legs let you raise the unloader an extra 15" into the silo roof, so you can use a conventional side distributor. Or, choose the Jamesway Powermaxx™ broad pan silage distributor. With proper distribution, you'll have better quality feed, and you'll increase your silo's capacity up to 35%. And we can prove it!

JAMESWAY

Volumaxx™ unloader. Expect the best from the leader.

Big Jim® To The Rescue!



Big Jim® is the best replacement unloader for your steel silo.

It offers greater capacity, more reliability, lower maintenance costs and excellent-quality haylage. You get wall-to-wall compaction during filling for even more silo capacity.

MANAGE YOUR POULTRY ENTERPRISE AS A SYSTEM

Dennis E. Buffington
Prof. And Head
Ag and Biological Engineering

Poultry farming — like all other farming enterprises — is becoming increasingly competitive because of global economic pressures that are often beyond our control.

Poultry producers who were very successful one or two decades ago are not as successful if they are following exactly the same practices that they did one or two decades ago. It becomes increasingly important for poultry producers to manage their poultry enterprises using the systems approach.

The systems approach involves understanding each individual component that comprises the system. Management needs to know how that individual component reacts to shifts in any input factors. In addition, management needs to know how any changes in an individual component affects the overall operation of the system. Finally, the overall mission of the system needs to be defined and all the personnel need to be constantly reminded of the system mission.

Generally the mission of a poultry enterprise is to maximize the net return. However, my experience is that some poultry producers will erroneously emphasize maximizing production, using factors such as number of eggs per layer per year or daily gain of broilers. Or management may focus upon minimizing other factors such as days to market for broilers or pounds feed per pound of gain.

These factors are indeed very important and influence the economic well-being of any poultry enterprise. However, if one chooses to maximize net return rather than maximizing number of eggs per layer per year, then different management strategies will need to be used.

Detailed records form the cornerstone of any systems management approach. Each poultry producer should be able to document the true costs associated with producing a dozen of eggs and the cost for each component of the egg production system. The components of an egg production system include feed, labor, utilities, depreciation of equipment and facilities, maintenance of equipment and facilities, flock health services, debt service, taxes, insurance, manure handling, etc. Also, a poultry producer needs to know how a change in one component increased the cost of egg production.

For example, a 10 percent increase in feed costs is going to increase the cost of producing eggs considerably more than a 10 percent increase in utilities cost. But how much more? Detailed records are needed to answer such questions. Having a gut feel is not sufficient.

Another example relates to maintenance of equipment and building facilities. Detailed records will provide information of the true costs associated with the maintenance. This figure then needs to be evaluated when considering hiring an experienced contractor to handle your maintenance requirements. Also, the value of the services that the poultry producer or his employees will be providing if they are not spending time with maintenance must be evaluated.

Operating a poultry enterprise today involves the management of a complex system. Detailed records provide the information needed by the manager to more fully understand the system and then to manage the system in an efficient manner.

Several weeks ago I was visiting a farmer who indicated that he was too busy doing farm work to have any time for keeping records. My response to him was "trying to manage a complex system without records is like trying to fish without a hook on your line. Your poultry operation won't be very successful and you won't have many fish to eat."

Farmers' Association Sets Picnic

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — The Adams County Farmer's Association (ACFA) is a local organization which is active in community affairs and is a lobbying group for the farming community. It also offers business services to its members.

ACFA is a general farm organization with approximately 900 family members. It is also affiliated with the Pennsylvania Farmers' Association.

"A special invitation has been issued to all farm family members and friends of the farming community to attend the annual summer picnic," said President Dave Wenk of the local group.

During this year's activities, special events have been planned. The program services and their representatives will be on hand for questions and concerns from the members.

The picnic will be held on Tuesday, July 28, at the South Mountain Fairgrounds, Arendtsville, beginning at 7 p.m. Each family member is requested to bring their own table service and a covered dish to pass. The Association will provide the meat, roll, and beverage.

Door prizes and special awards will be presented by Chairman Dave Gladfelter.

Don Sumnmers, a 4th grade science teacher at the Bermudian Springs Elementary School, will be on hand to give a presentation on his experiences at the teacher workshop conducted by the Pennsylvania Foundation for Better Living. The workshop will be conducted July 20-23 at the Pennsylvania State University to focus on the wholistic educational approach, enabling elementary teachers to develop projects and lessons that integrate agricultural concepts into their existing curriculm.

Safety poster contest winners Eric J. Ketterman and Joshua R. Ketterman of Gettysburg will be awarded their 1st place winner prizes along with other entrants. Mandy and Michael Mills of Gettysburg, and Amy and Nicole Gilroy of Harrisburg will be presented awards for entering the contest.

Directory To Showcase Adams County Farm Products

GETTYSBURG (Adams Co.) — The Gettysburg-Adams County Area Chamber of Commerce Agricultural Committee is developing a "Fresh From Adams County Farms 1992 Directory" for area consumers.

The intent of the directory is to show where consumers can find farm fresh products. This directory excludes those who don't consider themselves "farm-fresh," such as garden centers, gardeners, and non-farming produce or meat vendors.

The directory not only meets the consumer demands for local farm market information, but also is a marketing tool for Adams County farm operations. Producers can list the farm fresh foods for direct sale to consumers in the directory. There is no fee.

The types of farms that can be listed are those growing any of these products: vegetables, potatoes, and herbs; pumpkins and gourds; milk and dairy products; chicken turkey, and eggs; farm tours; small fruits, tree fruits, and cider; bedding and potted plants; beef, pork, lamb and wool, and fish; wine, honey, baked goods, and other farm-made foods; and Christmas trees.

The directory will be used by the Chamber of Commerce, Penn State Cooperative Extension, conservation district/SCS/ASCS, the Travel Bureau, and other tourist places to promote Adams County products throughout the county and surrounding regions.

The members of the agricultural committee hope that area consumers will use this directory. For more information, contact William C. Kleiner, agent, (717) 677-4160 or 334-6271.

The Osborne-engineered and manufactured feed station modifications include heavier hot-dip galvanized steel construction and improved exit and entrance details.

Feed Station Offers Automatic Separation

OSBORNE, Kan. — Osborne Industries introduces a new "Separation" electronic feeding station for Porcode® Management Systems. The station is part of the Porcode® electronic sow feeding system (ESF), which provides individual sow feeding and management attention for group-housed sows.

The Porcode® ESF system keeps sows in prime condition in an open environment that has been shown to yield high productivity without the need for special gestation or tethered stalls.

With two exit gates, the Separation station provides an automatic separation option for sows that are due for treatment, removal to farrowing, or special attention. By a signal from the computer, the feed station automatically separates a sow into an alternative pen on a preprogrammed date by opening the respective exit gate as she leaves the feedstation after eating.

The Osborne-engineered and manufactured feed station is based on a proven design licensed by Osborne from Nedap-Poiesz B.V., Hengelo, Netherlands. Osborne modifications include heavier hot-dip galvanized steel construction and improved exit and entrance details. The station's patented entrance gate permits only one sow to enter the station at one time and has been improved with all-steel entry rollers that are durable, but avoid sow entry injuries. Modular entry and exit panels have also been extended to eliminate competition.

Other special features of the Osborne station include Osborne RTM-Glas" feed trough and a standard brush damper to reduce wear on the exit gate as sows leave the station. A single Separation station can feed 40 to 50 sows and operates on safe 24 Vdc electrical power. An optional dual-hopper can be used to deliver two separate feeds during each feeding cycle. The feed station is controlled by a choice, based on management size and goals, from one of several Porcode® computers.

New 170 H.P. Tractor From Massey Ferguson

DES MOINES, Iowa — Massey Ferguson is introducing a new 170 PTO horsepower tractor, the MF 3690, in two and four-wheel-drive models.

The primary customer for these units is the capital-intensive farmer who needs 170 PTO horsepower tractors that provide additional reliability and durability in western and row crop configurations.

A unique feature of the MF 3690 is a double epicyclic reduction in the final drive. The rear axle and differential of a tractor are where the high speed engine horsepower is converted to the slower speed high torque, which makes a tractor useful for farm applications. It is not unusual for torque loads to exceed 50,000 to 70,000 pounds.

With the double epicyclic reduction in the MF 3690 final drive, all components in-board of the final drive turn faster to carry smaller torque loads for increased durability for longer life. The final drive is also located in a separate compartment that is lubricated with a special oil designed to hold up under extreme pressures.

The transmission is designed for maximum flexibility. Features include synchromesh, powershift, and shuttle. The 16 speeds provide a range of field speeds, and the synchromesh/powershift/shuttle gives flexible shifting.

The MF 3690 transmission has also been designed to accommodate the higher road speeds desired by today's farmer. Top road speed, depending on wheels and tires selected, will reach approximately 25 m.p.h.

The 6-cylinder, 452 cubic inch diesel engine provides the key characteristics that farmers demand — good torque rise, a wide operating range (peak torque occuring at low engine RPM), and fuel efficiency.

The 3690 four-wheel-drive model features à front end with differential lock which can be operated either fully engaged or disengaged. This gives improved traction from the front end when four-wheel-drive and differential lock are engaged, yet the flexibility to obtain the improved turning radius when the differential lock is fully disengaged.

The MF advanced electronic 3-point-linkage system provides precise position control and automatic draft control, or an intermix of the two.

New MF 3690 tractor with 170 PTO H.P. six-cylinder diesel engine. 16 speed synchromesh/powershift/shuttle transmission, and advanced electronic 3-point linkage system.

Landcommanders Offer 7-, 9-Shank Models

BRILLION, Wis. — New, large-framed Landcommanders feature 7- and 9-shank models with improved automatic reset shanks for better performance.

The models help manage compaction, rough fields, soil erosion, and crop residue. Newly designed springs on the auto-reset shanks improve performance in rugged conditions.

"These improvements provide faster, non-stop tillage," said Carl Miller, Brillion sales manager. "The automatic reset springs are heavier for better performance and longer life. Our larger seven- and nine-shank models allow more ground to be worked in a day.

"The Landcommander is the logical choice for residue management," said Miller.

Adjustable front disc gangs cut through residue. The auto-reset shanks penetrate the soil eight to 20 inches to break up compaction. Adjustable rear disc gangs level the field. On both front and rear disc gangs, working depth and disc angle can be easily adjusted.

"The rear disc gangs are specially designed to help manage surface residue and control erosion," said Miller. "Simply raise the gang out of the soil to leave surface residue or lower the gang to bury residue, break up clods, and level the field."

The Landcommander is available in 3-, 5-, 7- or 9- shank models 24-inch or 30-inch spacings.

For more information, contact your local Brillion dealer or write Brillion Iron Works, Inc., Brillion, WI 54110, (414)756-2121.

Starline Announces New Silo Unloader

MADISON, Wis. — At its annual Dealer Convention recently, J-Star Industries introduced to Starline dealers a new silo unloader called Cen-Trak™.

The new unit is a single cable unloader which the company says has a new and better center drive design that eliminates the headaches of complicated high-torque, center-drive machines. The unit also ends slip clutch and roll pin breakage problems of competitive machines.

The heart of the new Cen-Trak silo unloader is a 22-inch diameter, ¼ -inch thick, steel drive ring and hefty 6-inch diameter, cast iron, 12-tooth sprocket and floating 500:1 gear box that rotates the unloader's counter-rotating dual augers around the silo.

The new unloader eliminates bull wheel and drive traction problems resulting in better performance and less downtime. According to Starline engineers, the new Cen-Trak unit will find its greatest acceptance in the replacement market and for new installations with tripod suspension systems.

Cen-Trak also features a high-performance 26-inch impeller with reversible stainless steel paddles and stainless steel impeller band and exclusive dual roughage augers that incorporate 16° forward-pitch flighting.

The company also points out that "safety is no option with Starline." Their new ROSE control (Remote Override Safety Equipment) complies with the American Society of Agricultural Engineers' safety standards and allows the operator to make adjustments or repairs on the unit with greater safety.

Other Cen-Trak features include a rugged dirt-proof gear box, a self-cleaning auger cover and chipper wheels that shave walls clean. A reliable collector ring provides proven, trouble-free performance and the power transfer area provides dependability and greater efficiency.

For more information contact your Starline dealer or write to J-Star Industries, Inc., 801 Janesville Avenue, Fort Atkinson, WI 53538, (414) 563-5521.

Announces Md. Ag Reorganization

ANNAPOLIS, Md. — Governor William Donald Schaefer has announced a streamlining of functions at the Maryland Department of Agriculture, designed to improve efficiency and services during these difficult budgetary times.

"Using ideas from employees, Secretary Robert Walker has done a good job of utilizing his staff and improving the visibility of his programs," Schaefer said.

The changes at agriculture involve the consolidation of functions by creating a Marketing Team as part of the Office of the Secretary, combining Aquaculture Development and Seafood Marketing, and reassigning Egg Inspection and Grading Services to the Animal Health unit (which is now called Food Safety and Consumer Services).

During the past year, the Department of Agriculture has eliminated several managerial positions and instituted cross-training of staff to improve efficiency.

"As always, our goal is to upgrade our service to the agricultural community and the consumers of Maryland. I feel confident that these organizational changes will help us work smarter. We will continue to evaluate all our programs in an effort to make them better," Walker said.

Sustainable Ag Association Forms

MILLHEIM (Centre Co.) — Following the lead of most of the states along the Atlantic seaboard, Pennsylvania now has a statewide association dedicated to the advancement of sustainable agriculture.

In June, the Pennsylvania Association for Sustainable Agriculture (PASA) was officially incorporated as Pennsylvania's first such organization.

In February of this year, more than 500 people attended the state's first ever statewide conference on sustainable agriculture. In addition to sharing information and learning more about sustainable agricultural issues, the participants of "Farming for the Future" left conference organizers with a clear mandate: establish a sustainable agriculture association in Pennsylvania.

With a lot of hard work and many meetings since February, the mandate has been met and the goals of the conference have come to fruition in the form of PASA. The formation of PASA represents the first time Pennsylvania has had its own farmer-oriented agriculture organization devoted to sustainable and organic agriculture.

Since the conference, PASA has opened an office in Millheim, Centre County; selected a board of directors; hired an executive director; and initiated 10 on-farm demonstration projects.

In March, a volunteer advisory committee of more than 70 farmers, consumers, environmentalists, researchers, and agency people from all over the state met to discuss the priorities outlined during the conference. They also organized committees to set out various programs, named the organization, and selected the initial board of directors.

The newly elected PASA officers are Preston Boop, Briarpatch Organic Farms, Mifflinburg, president; Cass Peterson, Flickerville Mountain Farm, Warfordsburg, vice president; Christine Beddard, Lady Moon Farm, Selinsgrove, secretary; and Paul Shaw, Walnut Acres, Inc., Penns Creek, treasurer.

Incorporated as nonprofit and tax exempt, PASA has been established to develop, support, and promote sustainable food and farming systems, now and for future generations, that are economically viable, environmentally sound, scientifically based, and community oriented. PASA's general mission will be to:

- Provide general education and outreach to those interested in sustainable and organic agriculture in Pennsylvania;
- Establish a statewide network of individuals and organizations involved with and interested in sustainable agriculture;
- Initiate on-farm demonstration programs to highlight profitable and sustainable agricultural practices and farming systems that are reliable, practical, and farmer driven;
- Provide technical information to farmers, processors, and marketers;
- Encourage marketing strategies for organic and sustainable crops, livestock, and food products;
- Promote sound farm policy and research which affects Pennsylvania farmers.

In order to carry out this mission, PASA recently hired its first executive director, Timothy Bowser of Millheim. In addition to coordinating the start-up of the Association, Bowser is managing a collaborative on-farm demonstration program between PASA and the American Farmland Trust (AFT). This program works with farmers to initiate demonstrations of sustainable techniques and systems on their farms. The results will be published by AFT next winter in their sustainable agriculture series. Funding for this project as well as seed monies for PASA has been provided by AFT.

According to Bowser, discussions about the feasibility of forming an alternative ag association in Pennsylvania have been taking place for several years.

"I think the Farming for the Future Conference put to rest any doubts about whether a critical mass of interest existed," Bowser said. "We have a very inclusive organization. A real diversity of producers and consumers from all over Pennsylvania have gotten involved. I think PASA has a very strong representation from the git go."

PASA's inaugural year will culminate with the second "Farming for the Future" Conference, to be held February 5 and 6, 1993 on the Penn State University Park Campus.

For more information about PASA or to request a membership brochure, contact PASA, P.O. Box 316, Millheim, PA 16854.

Westfalia Remover Gives Consistent Milk-Out

ELK GROVE VILLAGE, Ill. — Field-proven electronics for automatic takeoffs now come in a stainless steel control box. The Westfalia automatic cluster remover gives the dairy farmer consistent milk-out.

The stainless steel milk flow monitor senses when milk flow has stopped. A simple diaphragm in the milk flow monitor provides vacuum shut-off to the teat end for milker removal.

The reversing valve in the ACR-SS allows for a short vacuum release before the milker unit is gently removed from the cow. Gentle removal means excellent teat end health.

The ACR-SS control panel is all-stainless, making it water resistant, rust resistant, and shock resistant. It's built to hold up for years of heavy milking use.

For more information, contact Westfalia Systemat, 1862 Brummel Drive, Elk Grove Village, IL 60007.

Shorthorn Association Announces Builders Of Breed

OMAHA, Neb. — The American Shorthorn Association, headquartered here, has announced its 1992 Builders of the Breed.

The annual honor is presented to individuals or firms who are selected by their peers for their contributions, involvement, and promotion of the Shorthorn/Polled Shorthorn breed of cattle.

This year's recipients were Mary and J.O. Bass III, Plainview, Texas; Bernie and Norma Bolton, Oakland, Iowa; Wayne C. Neely, Frederick, Md.; and George W. Slater, Augusta, Ill.

Mary and J.O. Bass III of Plainview, Texas, have helped at least three neighbors start registered Shorthorn herds. They have also sold many bulls to existing registered herds and have bred champion and reserve champion steers and heifers.

Mary's parents purchased her first Shorthorn heifer in 1961. Throughout high school and college, Mary exhibited her cattle and added to her herd. MJ Shorthorns was born with the 1977 marriage of Mary to J.O. Since 1978, MJ Shorthorns has taken six to eight head of cattle every year to various shows, including the National Western in Denver, Colo.

The Basses have one son, James F., who is five years old. They have been active in numerous community and Shorthorn activities, including the Texas Shorthorn Association, Five State Shorthorn Association, National Lassie Board, and are members of First United Methodist Church. In 1985, the couple was honored by the Lubbock Chamber of Commerce as the South Plains Outstanding Area Livestock Producers for a 23-county area. They were also honored with the Texas Shorthorn Association's Progressive Breeder Award in 1985 and, in 1987, hosted a field day and annual meeting.

Bernie and Norma Bolton of Oakland, Iowa, don't just show cattle, they support the Shorthorn breed. They have hosted people from across the United States, Canada, South America, and Australia. The Boltons, of Bern-A-Dale Shorthorns, have also helped with and hosted many judging workouts for 4-H, FFA, and college groups. Not to mention the trophies, awards, and prize money that they have sponsored for local, state, and national events.

Since the fall of 1952, Bern-A-Dale Shorthorns has grown from just one 4-H heifer to approximately 75 Shorthorn cows. The Boltons are continuously improving the genetics of their cattle, which have been sold into 32 states and Canada. And, after three production sales, the Boltons have developed a good trade area.

Bernie and Norma have three daughters, Lori, Mischa, and Erica, who have all been active in 4-H and showing cattle. Four grandchildren have entered the world of Bern-A-Dale Shorthorns. Just a few of Bernie and Norma's activities include the Iowa Shorthorn Association, The Polled Society, 4-H county committees, Soil and Water Conservation District work, Masonic Lodge, KP Lodge, United Methodist Church, Sunday School and Bible School teachers, and the school board. Bernie is presently serving his second term as president of the American Polled Shorthorn Society.

Wayne C. Neely of Frederick, Md., resurrected the old Maryland Shorthorn Association with no up-to-date membership list, no meetings for two years, and a depleted treasury, to an active organization that, a few years ago, was able to launch the highly successful Eastern Regional Shorthorn Field Day and Show. In 1984 he was the Honored Shorthorn Breeder at the Iowa Beef Expo.

Although his professional career was spent principally as a professor of Sociology (1933-1972) at Hood College in Frederick, Md., Wayne Neely was born on an Iowa Shorthorn farm and has always maintained a close identification with the Shorthorn breed. He and his wife, Margaret, a retired chemistry professor also from Hood College, maintain a farm in Greenfield, Iowa, Verd Lea Farm (meaning "Green Field," because of the location) has been in continuous operation by the Neely Family for 109 years. The first Shorthorn was registered in 1883.

Neely has written several articles on the Shorthorn breed. The first was in 1920 on pedigrees, which was published in The Breeder's Gazette. Numerous articles have followed in publications such as Shorthorn World, Shorthorn Country, and Shorthorn News (Canada). His book, The Agricultural Fair, was published by Columbia University Press, and he recently finished a typescript book on the history of Shorthorns in Adair County, Iowa.

George W. Slater of Augusta, Ill., tallies 55 years in the Shorthorn business. He was only 14 years old when GK Shorthorns was established in the fall of 1932 during the depths of the Great Depression. One bred heifer was purchased, and additional females were purchased the following summer. The GK herd now totals 24 breeding age females.

George and his wife Ellen, a retired University of Illinois cooperative extension advisor, are active in the Shorthorn breed and their community. George is a member of the Illinois State Shorthorn Association and exhibits at county and state fairs, among other Shorthorn activities. He has also been a member of the local school board for 17 years and secretary of the Hancock County Fair for 16 years.

The Slaters have three children — Jean Vogler, Kent Slater, and Kay Gomolak. They have also been blessed with five grandchildren. All three children were active with the cattle when they were growing up, and George and Ellen now provide a project heifer for a 10-year-old neighbor boy whose parents are grain farmers. The boy comes two evenings each week to help with chores. George, at age 74 and in good health, continues to work with the cattle.

115-Pound Hampshire Wether Becomes Grand

FREDERICK, Md. — The Maryland Hampshire Sheep Association held its first annual Market Lamb Jackpot Show on July 5.

The show was held on the back lot at Ceresville Ford New Holland, Inc. Twenty-three lambs were shown by exhibitors from Maryland, Pennsylvania, and Virginia. Approximately 60 enthusiastic Hampshire supporters attended the Jackpot.

Tim Fleener, district director for the American Hampshire Sheep Association, was the judge of this year's show. Fleener selected a 115-pound wether lamb that was bred, owned, and shown by Robert Dinsmore of Jefferson, Md., as grand champion. All exhibitors received Hampshire promotional items for their participation.

The Maryland Hampshire Sheep Association will also be sponsoring a special class for Hampshire market lambs at the Maryland State Fair. As for the Jackpot, lambs exhibited in this class must be sired and dammed by registered Hampshire rams and ewes. The Hampshire Market Lamb Committee is pleased to be able to offer these additional opportunities for youth exhibitors of Hampshire lambs.

A 115-pound wether lamb that was bred, owned, and shown by Robert Dinsmore of Jefferson, Md., was grand champion at the Market Lamb Jackpot Show.

Farm Credits Support Pa. Friends Of 4-H

UNIVERSITY PARK (Centre Co.) — Farm Credit of Pennsylvania and Farm Credit Bank of Baltimore have donated $1,000 each to Pennsylvania Friends of 4-H. Funds will be used to help Pennsylvania delegates attend the National 4-H Conference in Washington, D.C.

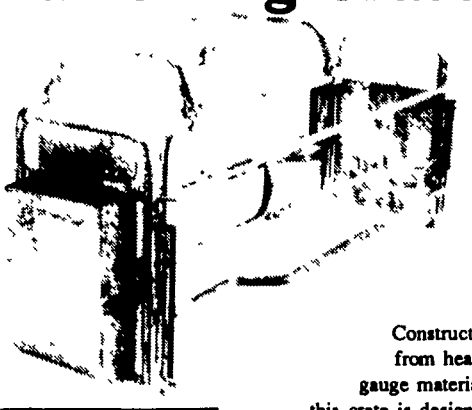
PREVENT PIGLET CRUSHING

BSM Model 90 Farrowing Crate



GALVANIZED!

Constructed from heavy gauge materials this crate is designed to reduce crushing, with sow comfort in mind. The bowed bottom bars makes for a comfortable 33" crate width when the sow lays down, yet the adjustable anti-crush bars eliminates the sow from carelessly dropping in the piglets.

This movement restriction does not hamper the sow as she lays down, or wants to stand up, as the bars slide up and out of her way.

Integrated Crop Management Planners Approved

SMOKESTOWN (Lancaster Co.) — The USDA Soil Conservation Service has issued a list of fertilizer venders and crop consultatns who have been approved to develop integrated crop management plans for environmental protection in the Pequea-Mill Creek Project area of Lancaster County.

These 13 ag chemical dealers and private consultants have completed nutrient and crop management training and passed an examination sponsored by Penn State Cooperative Extension and the Soil Conservation Service.

A $7/acre incentive for the 1992-1993 crop year is available for farmers in the Pequea-Mill Creek watersheds who hire an integrated crop planner. Farmers must enroll with the Lancaster ASCS office between August 3 and 21 to be eligible for the payment.

The crop management planners will use soil tests, information about manure production, and crop production information to recommend nutrient and pesticide applications to achieve an optimum agronomic yield while ensuring acceptable environmental protection. They will follow up their recommendations with crop scouting visits throughout the growing season. These visits will determine if other control treatments are necessary to control diseases, insects, or nutrient deficiencies.

Planners will include the environmental protection feature by preparing a farm operator's nutrient management summary that has been developed by the agencies in Pennsylvania that are responsible for environmental protection. The summary includes a manure spreading schedule, rates of manure application, and the fertilizer required to meet crop production needs.

Farmers will find that by working with an approved dealer or consultant, they'll be able to take advantage of the experience the dealer or consultant has in being a part of their farm operation in previous years. By being approved and using the recognized forms, a dealer or consultant will be able to offer crop management for environmental protection as a new service.

Certification of the dealers and consultants to write plans is a step in voluntary compliance with nutrient management on the part of the farmers, fertilizer dealers, and crop consultants.

This initiative is part of the USDA funded Pequea-Mill Creek Project to improve water quality in central Lancaster County. This voluntary program also includes incentives to help farmers implement best management practices to improve water quality.

An informational meeting is planned for farmers who are interested in participating in the incentive program. The meeting will be held Tuesday afternoon, August 4, at the Intercourse Park. Farmers can contact the Pequea-Mill Creek Project office, 311B Airport Dr., Smoketown, PA 17576-0211, (717)396-9423 to make reservations for the meeting and receive a list of approved dealers and private consultants.

BREWEX - For Use In Dairy Feeds

BREWEX is used extensively in complete dairy formulations to contribute utilizable energy. It is a price/performance value when used in dry feeds, liquid feeds and on-farm mixes.

MIX WITH DRY FEEDS: BREWEX is found in commercial pelleted rations for dairy, hogs and poultry as an energy source to replace corn. BREWEX replaces corn on a pound for pound dry basis and provides for improved pellet durability, reduced mineral segregation, dust control and improved palatability in dairy rations.

ON-FARM MIXING

A commercial Jersey dairy farm, having over ten years of experience in feeding BREWEX to partially replace corn finds that

- BREWEX replaced 5% to 10% corn/day
- BREWEX improves butterfat about 0.1%
- BREWEX mixed with forage reduces mortality due to displaced abomasum
- BREWEX helps cattle to stay on feeds

A Satisfied Customer...

JOHN R. RODGERS, of Belleville had three styles of fencing installed totaling a mile on his farm. John offers these comments. "I looked at others fencers and determined that Beaver Fence Systems had the people that could do a quality job and a quality fence to keep the cattle where I want them. The flexibility of the fence gives me full utilization of the land with maximum efficiency. The job was completed in two days including a barnyard fence, plus 6 and 4 wire pasture fencing."

MASTER MIX

SILO-BOOSTER

REDUCING THE LEVEL OF NITRATE IN HEAT STRESSED CORN SILAGE

Why should you use Master Mix SILO-BOOSTER instead of another product? SILO-BOOSTER has been proven in 23 years of on-farm use, as well as in continuous university research. With each new discovery in silage science, we have improved the original formula. Today's SILO-BOOSTER gives the most efficient silage innoculant yet developed.

Laboratory analysis of both treated and untreated silages confirms the increased production of lactic acid by the bacterial cultures in SILO-BOOSTER.

	SILO-BOOSTER TREATED	CONTROL
Lactic acid % (average of 11 measurements from day 1 to day 30)	2.35%	1.83%
pH (average of 11 measurements from day 1 to day 30)	3.98%	3.96%

While both silages showed very similar changes in total pH change; the SILO-BOOSTER treated silage contained more lactic acid. The homofermentive production of lactic acid by SILO-BOOSTER cultures reduces the potential for dry matter losses and the generation of excessive heat of fermentation.

COMPARISON OF SILO-BOOSTER TREATED AND CONTROL SILAGES

Fed To High Producing Dairy Cows
Conducted At The University of Wisconsin

	SILO-BOOSTER SILAGE	CONTROL
Milk (Lb./day)	87.3	86.2	NS
Fat %	3.84	3.88	NS
Forage DM Intake (Lb./day)	26.97	29.99	**
Conc. DM Intake (Lb./day)	27.45	26.78	NS
Total DM Intake (Lb. day)	54.31	56.77	*
DM/Lb. Milk	0.65	0.69	**

N.S. - non significant, *<5%, <1%
Statistics conducted on weekly totals.

SILO-BOOSTER treated silage was able to generate income per ton of forage feed. With milk valued at $ .125 per pound; butterfat at $ .17 per point; forage at $ .045 per pound of dry matter, and the concentrate portions at $ .08 per pound; SILO-BOOSTER silage returned $4.90 for each $1.00 invested in inoculant.

APPLICATION: 1 Lb. of SILO-BOOSTER per ton of Forage.
2 Lbs. of SILO-BOOSTER per ton of High Moisture Ear Corn.

Add Feed Value To This Year's Silage By Reducing Costly Fermentation Losses

D.W. Ogg Holds Day Day

FREDERICK, Md. — The D.W. Ogg Equipment Company has been serving the farming community for nearly a decade. Just three miles west of Frederick, Maryland at 5149 Capstine Road, Donald William and David Warren Ogg (both are D.W.) offer a full line of service.

Recently, the D.W. Ogg Equipment Company held a Hay Day at Egypt Farms, about 15 miles west of the company. Joe and Elaine Hottle of Egypt Farms offered to host the event at their Maryland farm. D.W. Ogg demonstrated the latest in hay-making equipment, including the popular Hesston round balers.

The 12,000 square feet of shop bays and showroom floor, as well as outside show area, enable D.W. Ogg to stock "everything from lawn and garden equipment to commercial units." Among the various brands of equipment offered at D.W. Ogg are Hesston, Gale, Massey Ferguson, Bevco, Taylor-Pittsburgh, and more. Parts are stocked and also shipped to customers, as well. The company offers tractors from garden size "up to about 300 horsepower," according to Mrs. D. W. Ogg.

Busy farmers take a break by riding the EZ-Trail wagon bed pulled by the Fiat 45-66 over the mile long stretches of Timothy Hay at the Hay Day.

York Volunteers To Be Honored At Ag Progress

YORK (York Co.) — Several volunteers from York County will be on hand when Penn State's College of Agricultural Sciences holds a Volunteer Appreciation Day luncheon on Thursday, August 20.

The event is part of Penn State's annual Ag Progress Days, which is dedicated this year to the more than 50,000 volunteers who serve the college statewide.

"The research and education programs of the College of Agricultural Sciences truly touch the lives of all Pennsylvanians," said Dr. Lamartine Hood, dean of the college. "Our effectiveness as an organization and our value to society are enhanced immensely by the work of dedicated volunteers, who support the college's service mission and help address local needs. They prove on a daily basis the value of individuals in helping to solve the problems of a complex and changing society."

Many of those being honored serve their communities through cooperative extension programming.

"Volunteers are the backbone of the extension system," said Dr. Donald Evans, assistant dean and assistant director of Penn State Cooperative Extension. "With their help, we're able to provide high quality extension education programs to thousands of Pennsylvania youths and adults."

About three million volunteers nationwide assist with extension education programs in agriculture, community leadership, youth and family education, economic development, and the environment. More than 700 volunteers participate in York County extension programs.

"It's impossible to measure the value of the time, energy and talent these volunteers give to our county," said Roxanne Price, York County extension director.

Penn State's Ag Progress Days feature more than 500 acres of educational and commercial exhibits, tours, and machinery demonstrations. It is held at the Russell E. Larson Agricultural Research Center at Rockspring, nine miles southwest of State College on Route 45 on August 18-20. Hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday and Thursday, with extended hours of 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. on Wednesday. Admission and parking are free.

S.E. Regional Dairy Show Kicks Off Season

VERNON ACHENBACH JR.
Lancaster Farming Staff

NORTH CORNWALL (Lebanon Co.) — The state youth dairy showing season began this past week with the Southeastern Regional FFA Dairy Show, held Tuesday at the Lebanon Area Fairgrounds.

For many of the youth, it marks the first show of many they will travel to in preparation for the State Junior Dairy Show, scheduled for Sept. 21 at the Farm Show Complex in Harrisburg.

Also, many of the youth use the county fair shows in addition to the youth shows to prepare themselves and their animals for open class breed shows, the All American Dairy Show, the state Farm Show, and even some national shows.

The more time spent concentrating on fitting, showing and in the ring adds to the development of exhibitors and animals that exhibit the in-ring professionalism that judges often seek.

Turnout for Tuesday's first official youth show of the season was strong, according to show organizers who said that the 88 animals exhibited was a slight increase from last year.

Youth eligible for the Southeast FFA show are from Berks, Bucks, Chester, Lancaster, Lebanon, Lehigh, Montgomery, Northampton and Schuylkill counties. The show was dedicated to the memory of Chester Raught.

Judges gave high marks on the quality of animals entered, qualifying 52 animals with blue ribbons for further FFA competition. The Holstein judge was Raymond Seidl, of Kerchen Hill Holsteins, in Kutztown, while the colored breed judge was Larry Swartz, with Atlantic Breeders Cooperative.

The grand champion of the Holstein breed was Russelldale Count Jazz, owned and bred by Andrew Bicksler, of Richland. The sire of the 5-year-old was Modik Valliant Count-ET and the dam was Russelldale Chairman Jinx.

Taking reserve grand champion in the Holsteins was Loving-Meadows Persimmon, an 3-year-old owned and bred by Kevin Bomgardner, of Ono. The sire was Browndale Caster and the dam was Loving-Meadows Patsy.

Bomgardner also took home the junior champion title with the selection of his bred and owned intermediate yearling, Loving-Meadows Penguin, sired by Willowholme Algonquin-ET. The dam was Loving-Meadows Persimmon.

The reserve junior champion was an intermediate calf owned by Micheal Balmer, of Manheim. Leh-Mer-Pine Astro Felina was sired by Peachey Astronaut Rueben and the dam was Leh-Mer-Pine Fire Faith. The breeder was the Balmer Bros.

In the Ayrshire breed, Brian Nolan, of Cochranville, showed the senior 2-year-old Dreamnol Johnny's Kassy to take the grand champion title, edging out Heather Becker's junior champion, Beck Ayr Carrie, a junior yearling.

Despite getting the reserve grand title, however, Becker, of Narvon, took the ribbon for best bred and owned in the breed.

Jed Vail, of Myerstown, took home the reserve junior champion title with his entry, Conebella Bell Boy Sue, a senior calf.

The Brown Swiss competition grand championship was captured by Karen Heilinger's 5-year-old Linda Babaray Lynette. Heilinger, of Newmanstown, also showed the best animal bred and owned, but it wasn't her grand champion. It was her 4-year-old KH Simon Marble Miami Vice.

All nine Brown Swiss entered, except one, earned blue ribbons and qualified for further competition.

Taking reserve grand champion of the Brown Swiss was Regal Robin Rhoda, a 4-year-old shown by Scott Wagner of Quarryville. It was bred by Karen's father, Bruce Heilinger.

Thomas Zartman, of Ephrata showed the junior and reserve junior champion Swiss. The champion was his bred and owned Indian Run Amy Sue, while the reserve was Meadow-Hill Emory Dinah-ET, bred by Gary Mase, of Lebanon.

From the left, Kevin Bomgardner holds the halter of his reserve grand champion Holstein and shows the ribbon he earned, while Andrew Bicksler shows his grand champion ribbon earned by his Holstein.

In the Guernsey breed, Steve Wagner, of Quarryville, showed the grand champion, a 3-year-old, Bo Joy Honore Pride, for which he also earned recognition because it was the best bred and owned.

Karen Heilinger also showed Guernseys and earned the reserve grand title with her 4-year-old KBH Captain Feather Flash, also a bred and owned animal.

In the junior division, the Wagner showed the lone animal, earning him the championship title, but also a blue ribbon, so he can continue to compete in FFA shows with the summer yearling.

All three Guernsey took blue ribbons.

Of the eight Jerseys exhibited, only one didn't make the cut for a blue ribbon.

Tiffany Yeager's 3-year-old Agrape Royal Tootsie took the grand champion title and was named best bred and owned. Yeager is from Spring City and also showed the reserve junior champion.

Scott Youse, of Oley, showed the reserve grand and the junior champions of the show. The reserve grand was his dry cow, Elmview Legen Lana, while his junior champion was Bryant-Hill-Bold Hickory, a summer yearling.

Although more had been entered and cancelled, the Milking Shorthorn breed competition was represented by Craig Hostetter's two entries: junior champion, Craig's Prince Carita Colleen, a junior calf; and his grand champion, Pinesedge D.J. W.C. Lorrie, a senior 2-year-old.

Hostetter, of Washington Boro, also took home the best bred and owned title for the junior calf.

The top breeder-exhibitor of the Holstein breed was Andew Bicksler, followed by Kevin Bomgardner. In the colored breeds, competing together, was Tiffany Yeager, followed by Scott Wagner.

In the county group competitions, which included all breeds, Lebanon took first, followed by Lancaster and then Berks.

The top three placed school groups were Elco, Northern Lebanon and then Annville.

Holstein judge Seidl said the show was a good start for the show year.

"The class winners were quite acceptable," he said, adding that, though he was not the judge, representative animals of the colored breeds were also of strong quality.

"It'll be an interesting year," he

Ciba-Geigy, FMC Host Summer Tour

NEW HOLLAND (Lancaster Co.) — More than 225 people attended a recent summer crop performance plot tour and picnic in New Holland sponsored by Ciba-Geigy, FMC, and the area adult farmer program.

The program concentrated on the work done at a New Holland farm where demonstration plots have been maintained for several years, mostly through the efforts of Don Robinson, with the adult farmer program and with the cooperation of the farm owner, Paul Kurtz.

Speakers included Robinson, who has performed most of the work on the plots which are located on the Kurtz farm, located off of Rank Road in New Holland. Robinson discussed proper tip spraying.

Representatives of the the state Department of Agriculture, Penn State Extension, farmers, commercial representatives and a mix of others interested in examining trial plots, effects of new chemistry by the companies, and new applications attended the tour.

Those who hold pesticide applicator permits were awarded one core and three catagory points by state ag officials for attending the day's program.

Also, speaking was Dr. Bill Kern, with PSU Extension, who discussed control of broadleaf weeds and grasses and representatives of the two sponsoring companies.

Included in the talks by Ciba-Geigy were demonstrations of post emergence control on corn and the effects of herbicides on corn and soybeans; while FMC showed its new closed system Furadan injection system whereby the applicator does not come into contact with the product in handling, storage, mixing or application.

The returnable containers all go back to the company after using for re-use so the user is not responsible for disposal.

Also shown was the effect of systemic herbicides on Johnsongrass, shattercane, and broadleaf weeds; the effectiveness of controls on wheat rust and mildew control; and the use of insecticides on leaf hopper control.

The tour was designed as an educational program, rather than as a promotion of specific commercial products.

Livestock Notes

Common Semen Handling Errors
Ray L. Nebel
Extension Dairy Scientist
Reproduction
U. of Md.

Recently I have visited a number of dairy farms to evaluate reproductive performance of the herd and various management techniques and practices that affect performance.

An area which is often overlooked is semen handling thawing. A general recommendation which is commonly ignored is need for a high level of cleanliness of equipment and the area where equipment is used and stored.

The insemination rod, scissors or straw cutter, and tweezers should always be clean and dry. A well-lit area is especially needed for removal of straws from the liquid nitrogen storage tank.

The most common error in semen handling is that semen storage canisters are raised above the frost line, exposing all the semen in that canister to temperatures which may be harmful to semen viability. The extent of damage depends on how long and how high the canister is raised above the frost line.

Fingers instead of tweezers are still commonly used to remove semen straws from storage tanks. The major problem is to remove semen with you fingers—the canister must be raised higher withing the neck of the tank and always above the frost line, thus damaging the semen to some degree.

Two common semen thawing errors are an improperly working thermometer and not timing the thawing time in the water bath. Check the thermometer for accuracy at least every three to four months with a reference thermometer. The thaw water should be between 90 and 98 degrees F. A minimum of 40 seconds is recommended for thawing of straws in warm water.

A thawing time of 1 to 2 minutes will not injure sperm and is preferred to less than 40 seconds.

The major recommendation for semen handling after thawing is to maintain the semen at body temperature until inseminated. The insemination rod should be warmed prior to inserting the straw and protected once the straw is contained within the rod and sheath.

For optumum results, it is essential that frozen semen be handled and thawed carefully and properly.

Bay Foundation Holds Field Trip

HARRISBURG (Dauphin Co.) — The Chesapeake Bay Foundation hosted a special cruise on the Chesapeake Bay for a group of 20 Pennsylvania farmers on Tuesday.

The first half of the day was spent aboard the Foundation's historic skipjack, the Stanley Norman, an antique oystering vessel harbored in Annpapolis, Md. The farmers explored bay water quality, trawled for bay creatures, and dredged for oysters.

The second half of the day was spent at CBF's Clagett Farm, an educational and agricultural research center near Upper Marlboro, Md. Farmers learned how agriculture impacts the watershed and discussed farming methods that are safest for the bay with Foundation specialists.

Chesapeake Bay Foundation adult field trip experiences are designed to allow individuals, both members and non-members, the opportunity to appreciate and learn about the Chesapeake and its tributaries. Staff are trained to help each group explore the many natural wonders of our region while learning about some of the challenges the bay and its tributaries face. For information about field trips, call CBF's Education Program at (800) 445-5572.

GEHL Introducing a new generation of Gehl skid loaders.

Gehl skid loaders have a long, well-earned reputation for ruggedness, reliability and unmatched serviceability. Our new "25 Series" generation of skid loaders enhances that proven performance with more muscle, more durability, additional convenience features and increased operator comfort.

The result: the best skid loader value available today.

Compare a Gehl skid loader to the competition. You'll quickly see that Gehl handles easier and performs better.

- Gehl's exclusive T-bar hand controls give you outstanding maneuverability and precise bucket and drive control. Your hands control the entire operation.
- A secondary operator restraint system provides protection and comfort.
- Self-leveling action keeps the load in the bucket (standard on SX, optional on other models).
- High capacity hydraulics provide extra power for operating hydraulic attachments. A wide variety of attachments are available to handle virtually any job.

Gehl builds a full line of skid loaders to match your needs. Models range from 20 to 60 horsepower with SAE operating capacities from 750 to 2,050 pounds. And Gehl backs its loaders with strong parts and service support.

Once you've operated a versatile Gehl skid loader, you won't be satisfied with anything less. Ask your dealer for a test drive. today.

The new "25 Series" offers these advantages over the models they replace.

- More operating capacity.
- Stronger load arms.
- Increased dump height.
- Increased dump reach.
- Smoother control operation.
- Lower noise level.
- New systems monitoring.
- Enhanced operator comfort

The proven Hydra-Spread design can free you from the griet and maintenance of spreader apron chains for good!

This low maintenance spreader features solid poly boards both on the sides and the floor for slippery, no-stick performance. Hydraulic push power replaces the extensive mechanism needed in ordinary spreaders.'

Why pay more for yesterday's ideas and designs? The design of tomorrow is PRICED RIGHT and will be on the job for years. We deliver to your farm.

IXL

Science brings a new dimension to Anti-Friction

An oil additive metal conditioner product ahead of its time, IXL will give your equipment priceless protection. IXL gives protection far superior to just oil or lubricants. IXL is specifically designed to be used in: (NEW) and (USED) gasoline & diesel engines, compressors, automatic & manual transmissions, hydraulics, gear boxes, bearings of all types, turbos, pumps, and much more. IXL is a metal conditioner which treats surface metals 3 to 5 microns deep, thereby making the metal surfaces harder, denser and smoother. These results are minimum metal wear, giving maximum engine and machine life. IXL reduces heat, friction, and wear, up to 60% without changing tolerances, reducing friction will release energy previously expended to overcome ordinary mechanical resistance. This energy is now available as a positive force, working to increase power, performance and fuel savings. IXL also helps maintain and recondition seals and gaskets, by keeping these items pliable, firm, and flexible. It will help prevent leaks, however IXL is not a lubricant fortifier, such as PTFE, Moly, or graphite. IXL is biodegradable, NON-TOXIC and environmentally safe. IXL is one of the highest quality products on the market today. IXL is satisfaction guaranteed or your money back.

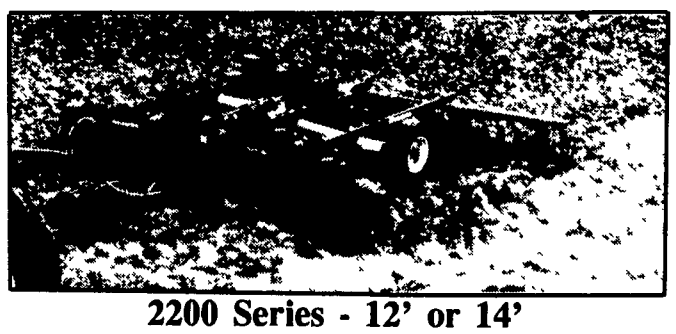
disc harrows save you money

...WHEN YOU BUY ONE
...WHEN YOU USE ONE
...WHEN YOU TRADE ONE

BEFORE YOU BUY A NEW DISC HARROW THIS SPRING CHECK THREE THINGS:

1) PRICE per POUND

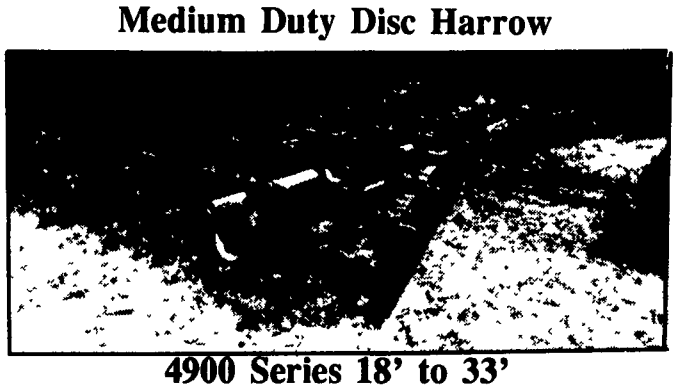
Krause Rockflex discs cost less per pound than most discs available today. Whether you are looking for a 12' or a 30' disc, compare price per pound.



2200 Series - 12' or 14'
Medium Duty Disc Harrow

2) PARTS AVAILABILITY & PRICE...

Krause Rockflex disc parts are in stock at HOOBER'S when you need them. With over 100 units being sold per year, you know that when you buy a new disc from us, we will have your parts when you need them. AND AT PRICES LESS THAN THE COMPETITION.



4900 Series 18' to 33'
Medium Duty Disc Harrow

3) TRADE VALUE IS THE HIGHEST...

When you go to sales this Summer to watch a KRAUSE disc sell, you'll find out that there is no machine that maintains its value better than a KRAUSE ROCKFLEX DISC. They always bring top dollar.

2400 Series - 21' to 34'
Heavy Duty Disc Harrow

Why Are KRAUSE Rockflex discs such a great value? It's simple!!!

They WORK, AND WORK, AND WORK, AND WORK, AND WORK...

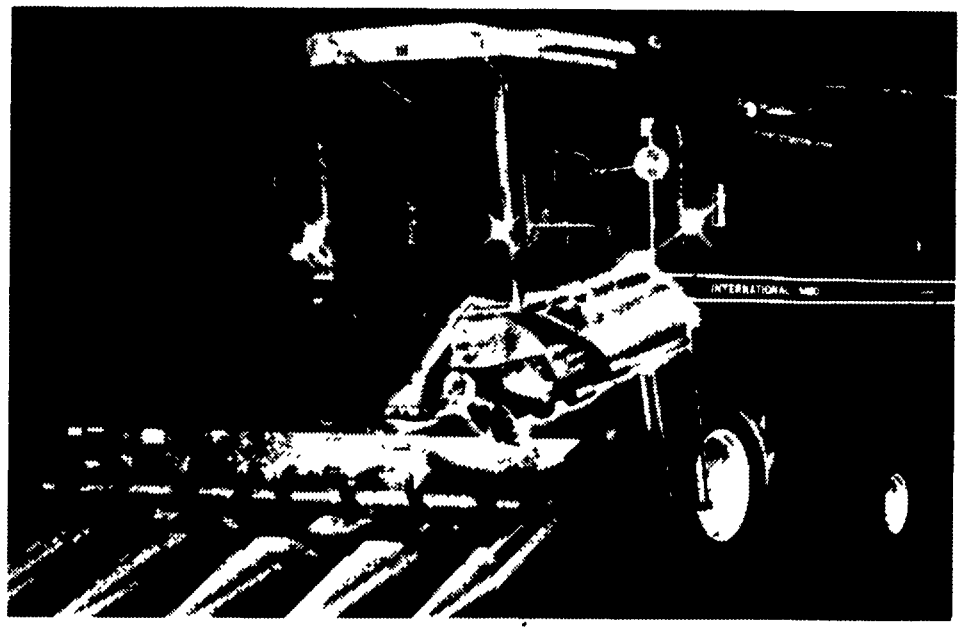
Best Buys in Used Equipment

YOU DON'T NEED TO BE A MATHEMATICIAN TO LEARN THE 3 LAWS OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES. YOU ONLY NEED TO TRY ONE.



1st LAW OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

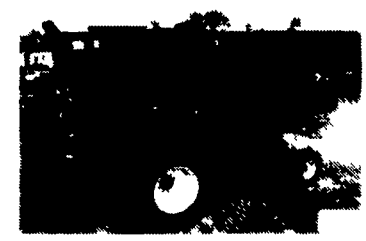
FOURTEEN (14) YEARS OLD IS NOT EQUAL TO (=) WORN OUT

Because of the simple design of the CASE IH Axial Flow Combines, they can be reconditioned by Hoober's expert combine mechanics to like new condition, so they will provide 2nd and 3rd owners years of satisfactory and profitable operation.

2nd LAW

OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

IH 1460, 1985, 2191 Hrs., 30.5x32 & 18.4x16.1, AC, AHHC, Spinrs, Chopr (U6238)



IH 1460, 1981 3000 Hrs., 28Lx26, AC, AHHC (U6454)

CIH 680, 1986, 30.5x32-New Tires, Mud Hog 4 WD, Grain Monitor, Conventional Rotor, Yield Monitor, AHHC, Chopper, Feedr Revrs, Reel to Ground, 2 Spd. Hydro, 2911 Hrs. (U6438)

3rd LAW

OF HOOBER RECONDITIONED AXIAL-FLOW COMBINES

4,000 HOURS PLUS (+) HOOBER RECONDITIONING EQUALS (=) YEARS OF DEPENDABLE SERVICE

4,000 hours on a conventional combine usually means too much trouble to be dependable. Axial-Flow Combines with 4,000 hours reconditioned by Hoober's have proven to run for years when bought by farmers in Pennsylvania, Delaware, Maryland, New Jersey and New York.

A CASE-IH AXIAL-FLOW COMBINE SERVICED BY EXPERT HOOBER COMBINE MECHANICS EQUALS (=) LITTLE OR NO DOWN TIME DURING HARVEST.

When Hoober's expert combine mechanics service Axial-Flow Combines in the off-season, they run trouble-free through the season.

case IH AXIAL FLOW...One Step Ahead For

...OPERATION
...ECONOMY
...PERFORMANCE
...VALUE

...HEADERS

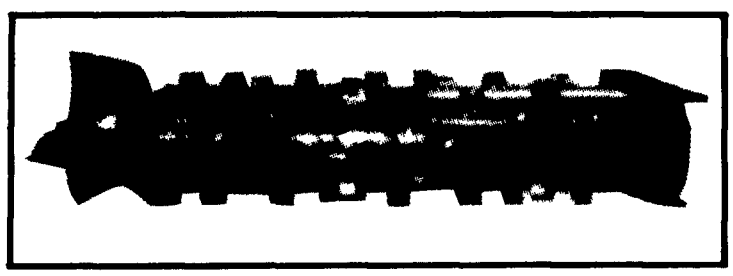
THE AXIAL FLOW SYSTEM PUTS CLEAN, QUALITY GRAIN IN THE TANK...

The Case International XPE Axial-flow Combines feature a single, in-line mounted rotor that gets multiple chances to gently thresh your crop, and then separate it from straw, stalks, pods, and trash. So more of the crop gets harvested, with less damage.

Threshing and separating in a conventional combine takes as many as 16 moving parts. But threshing and separating in the Axial-Flow Combine utilizes just one moving part-- the rotor. It simply does a better job.

Although the Axial-Flow combine is built around the extraordinary performance strengths of the rotor, from header to straw spreader there are no weak links.

Hoober's professional combine servicemen have 15 years experience setting axial flow combines in a large variety of crops in most all types of field and weather conditions. When it comes to the KNOW-HOW of making the Axial-Flow combine perform, Hoober men know how.



THE ROTOR GENTLY THRESHES SEPARATES AND FEEDS THE CROP FOR EXTRAORDINARY RESULTS IN THE TANK.

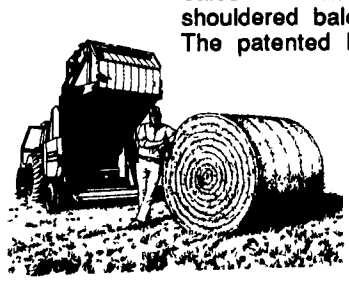
NEW! Exclusive design produces best-ever bales

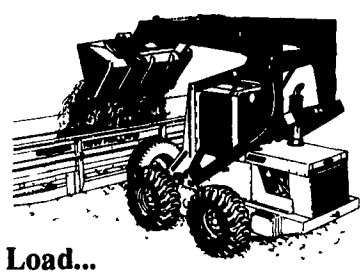
The unique New Holland Models 650 and 660 Roll-Belt™ round balers make the best quality bales ever. Tight bales — dense bales. Good-looking, square-shouldered bales that hold up to the weather. The patented Roll-Belt™ design means fast, sure core formation, even in the toughest crops. The adjustable hydraulic belt-tensioning system puts maximum bale density control at your fingertips. And, you can choose from three optional automatic tying mechanisms for the smoothest package ever.



Harvest your crop with the best in self-propelled harvesting

If you custom harvest as well as chop your own forage, a self-propelled harvester like the Model 1915 can help you harvest more crop at peak quality. The fuel-efficient 270-horsepower diesel engine and the 24-inch, 12-knife cutter head gives you high-capacity day-in and day-out harvesting. And the exclusive automatic knife sharpener and automatic shearbar adjuster, called Accucut™, combine to give you precision-sharpened knives and a reset shearbar, all from the comfort of the cab.

Stop in today and let us show you the other features of the "1915." Or better yet, let's set up a time to demonstrate this harvester in your own field.



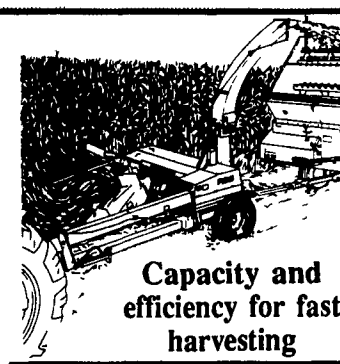
Load... unload faster and easier

When you're working the big loads you need the Super Boom advantage — extra reach.

With more forward dump reach you can center load your largest spreader from one side so you get an even load. The result: faster loading, fuller loads and easier unloading.

With level bucket lift you load more and lift higher... with less spillback. And, with a longer wheelbase there's more stability and safety. So, why get stuck with anything else?

Find out just how good a skid-steer loader can be.

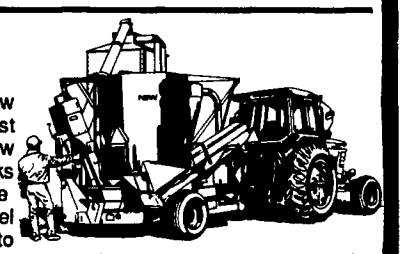


Capacity and efficiency for fast harvesting

When it comes to harvesting, you can't beat the heavy-duty performance that's built into the New Holland Model 790 forage harvester. Performance starts at the cutterhead. The 19 11/16-inch wide, 12-knife cutterhead delivers a fine uniform chop that's just right for most silage feeding operations. And an electric clutch gives instant response and positive control on the reversing gearbox. The Model 790 is available with either a 540-rpm or a 1000-rpm PTO drive.

Stop in today and trade for the performance leader in harvesters— the "790" from Ford New Holland.

First in durability



Surveys show owners rate New Holland grinder-mixers as the most durable. That's because Ford New Holland builds them right and backs them with quality parts and service. The Model 358 has a 125-bushel tank that's specially designed to eliminate bridging. An optional electronic scale assures accurate control of rations. Stop in and see the durable Model 358 grinder-mixer.

Seeing is believing

Every minute you can save at the blower means more loads per day and more overall productivity. Let us demonstrate the New Holland Model 40 forage blower and we believe you'll agree you can increase your silage productivity.

The Model 40, with 20 percent greater tip speed than previous models, center fills silos over 80 feet high. The Whirl-A-Feed® table spins the crop into the blower housing at high speed, making more efficient use of your tractor's horsepower. See us soon for a demonstration of the Model 40.

ELS Manure Pumps & Spreaders Check Ours Before You Buy!

We have a new design manure pump that we feel will chop & pump more solids for the money (and HP). Bearings run in oil. Knives make over 3000 cuts per min. Stationary or portable, manual or hydraulic lift. Rent one or buy one, but be sure to try one! We also have our standard model, works well for less bedding with less HP.

We also have semi & liquid spreaders ground drive in 3 standard sizes, also PTO drive & special orders.

We make expanded metal tractor wheels w or w/o shocks, the wheel with more grip & less slip. Check our prices!

Use our forms to make your own poured walls, round or square pits, retaining walls, basement or barn walls. 2x8 panels up to 190' in one pour. Cheaper & much stronger than block walls filled with concrete. We sometimes have used equipment.

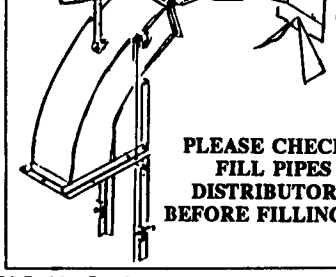
Strengthen And Reseal Your Silo With Shotcrete

STRONGER AND WILL OUT LAST PLASTER

IS YOUR SILO READY TO BE FILLED WITH CORN SILAGE?



PLEASE CHECK YOUR FILL PIPES AND DISTRIBUTORS NOW BEFORE FILLING SEASON

S&S Silo Service prepares the silo surface by using a 3,000 lb. pressure washer, thus making the silo moist, making a much better surface to bond shotcrete. After shotcreting, S&S always takes away any roughness by applying a steel trowel finish.

The excellent bonding of shotcrete to the silo will keep out moisture and prevent mold from growing on the side of the silo.

Measure The Performance

Ron Hinton, Purina Dairy Specialist and Ron Reese, RD 2 Port Matilda, PA

Ron began working with his local Purina dealer, Warriors Mark Feed Center, in August 1992. In 7 months his RHA has increased 1895 lbs. of milk. This can be attributed to Ron's superior management skills along with the Purina feeding program: the combination of a quality fat-added concentrate and excellent on-farm service.

Ron milks approximately 170 cows in a one-group TMR feeding system. His feed program consists of haylage, corn silage, dry hay, HMSC, and a Purina high energy concentrate.
